Fresh Effort Is Made In Steel Strike

Round-The-Clock Sessions Rejected Despite Ike's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government arranged Friday to bring industry and union negotiators in the steel dispute together Saturday for their first face-to-face bargaining session since last Tuesday.

President Eisenhower's call for round-the-clock negotiations was rejected but the scheduled joint meeting represented a fresh effort at least toward trying for a settlement of the marathon labor dispute.

Prospects Dim

Prospects for an agreement appeared slim, and officials cautioned against placing too much optimism.

R. Conrad Cooper, U.S. Steel Corp. vice president and chief industry negotiator, was asked by newsmen to measure the gulf between industry and union. He replied the United Steelworkers are seeking nearly double the wage benefit gains which steel management has offered.

It looked as if Eisenhower would not get his expressed wish that the steel labor fight would be settled while he is away on a three-week good-will mission abroad.

The wish was expressed in Eisenhower's predeparture broadcast to the nation Thursday night in which he sharply rapped the steel disputants for letting the threat of a renewed strike depress America's economy.

May Walk Out Again

The nation's half million Steelworkers can walk out again after the current Taft-Hartley law injunction expires Jan. 26.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation Service who is presiding over the current negotiations, said labor peace is not always fostered by formal meetings and said he planned to schedule sessions as they seemed most productive.

City Blacked Out By Power Failure

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Christmas shoppers groped around darkened stores, firemen got frantic calls, traffic became snarled and many persons were trapped in elevators during an early afternoon power failure which blacked out much of the Kansas City area Friday.

A malfunction of a 161,000-volt switching structure at a generating plant in northeast Kansas City caused the paralyzing failure that lasted up to 51 minutes.

Most of the current generated at four Kansas City substations crosses through this switching complex. When it failed, it so overburdened the system that a complete shutdown was necessary.

Affected were 250,000 power company customers throughout greater Kansas City. Three hospitals were affected but they had emergency power units. They reported no major difficulties.

Two men trapped inside a hotel elevator climbed out through an escape hatch in the ceiling.

Christmas shoppers in some stores were directed to the doors by employees using flashlights.

"People were very cooperative and orderly," one store executive said. "Many waited inside the entrances until the lights came back on."

Traffic lights failed, causing huge snarls in the downtown area. The police radio system operated with emergency equipment, and most police cars were put on stand-by during the emergency.

Firemen were flooded by calls from persons whose electric motors began smoking. Some burned out.

Four hundred persons were attending a luncheon in a downtown hotel when the lights went out. Candelabras were produced quickly and the luncheon continued.

Water service was disrupted in some areas because city pumps and other equipment are electrically operated.

Power company officials said apparently there were no injuries as a direct result of the failure. Power was off only a few minutes in parts of the city but it was 51 minutes before power was completely restored in downtown Kansas City. The failure began at 12:59 p.m.

Several radio and television stations went off the air.

One man was particularly irritated. He came to a garage for his car sporting half a haircut. The barber had used the clippers on one side but in this mechanical age couldn't produce a pair of hand clippers to finish the job.

135 Victims Of French Dam Break Buried

FREJUS, France (AP) — Sated survivors buried 135 of the dead from the Malpasset Dam disaster Friday and searchers dug into a dirty brown blanket of silt in search for the missing.

Officials of this little Riviera city said there were 199 known dead from Wednesday night's dam break. The massive bank of water roared down the beautiful four-mile long Reyran Valley into the Mediterranean with the wreckage of many homes on its crest.

Among the dead are 53 children. There still were 100 names on the official list of missing but this was being whittled down as some turned up safe.

Nearly 3,000 men and women filled the city square flanking Frejus Hospital for funeral services for the identified dead.

The rough pine caskets were laid out in rows, with a name chalked on each lid.

There were 40 other caskets of unidentified dead.

On one lid was chalked: "Little girl, wearing red dress." Others bore similar inscriptions to help those still seeking missing relatives.

Where silt lay deep over the roads and fields, soldiers and volunteers searched for bodies.

When the 185-foot-high dam crumbled against the pressure of millions of tons of water stored from heavy rain the homes of the rural valley were smashed as by a giant fist. Twisted wreckage silted over and it was in these places that the rescuers worked.

The response of France to the national disaster, and aid offered by neighboring countries, kept crisis from the area. Water trucks served street corner queues and no critical food shortages were reported. U.S. Navy bakers provided thousands of loaves of bread.

Stolen Items Get Owner Into Trouble

PULASKI, Va. (UPI) — Merchant Claude Ratcliffe reported a break-in and burglary at his store Friday and carefully listed the items stolen.

Officers noted that the list included four cases of roman candles and booked Ratcliffe on a charge of violating the town's anti-fireworks ordinance.

Seven-Pound Animal Shot 55 Miles High

WASHINGTON (AP)—A seven-pound monkey named Sam rocketed 55 miles high in a space capsule Friday. The capsule was plucked from the Atlantic Ocean, and when Sam's compartment was opened after six hours he was found alive and kicking.

Sam's saga began at 11:15 a.m. (EST) when civilian space scientists fired him aloft in a one-ton capsule like a U.S. astronaut one day may ride into space.

The experiment, carrying forward work toward manned space flight, was intended primarily to test an escape mechanism. Officials said the test was a success.

The capsule was shot from Wallops Island, off Virginia's eastern shore, atop a Little Joe rocket—a cluster generating 240,000 pounds of thrust. Thirty-month old Sam rode in a small chamber inside the capsule, along with some lower forms of life and some instruments.

Flew 13 Minutes

Sam was in flight 13 minutes. After the capsule parted from its booster, it parachuted to the surface of the Atlantic about 200 miles from Wallops Island.

Almost immediately a Navy patrol plane picked up the capsule's radio beacon by means of a dye marker in the water.

The destroyer Borie dashed to the scene, arriving about two hours after launch time. The one-ton capsule soon was hauled aboard.

There was no delay removing the monkey's chamber from the much bigger capsule. But the Borie's officers hesitated to open the container lest they harm the monkey or damage any of the instruments.

They thought it best to have a doctor standing by when they opened the chamber — but the nearest doctor was aboard the Ft. Mandan, a Navy landing ship dock, close by. He was Air Force Capt. Don Geisler, a veterinarian.

For more than an hour, the Borie's crew tried to swing the 100-pound container, monkey and all, to the Ft. Mandan. But seas were running high and they had to give up.

Carried To Sick Bay

The chamber was carried to the destroyer's sick bay and — with Capt. Geisler giving instructions by radio — the Borie's sailors carefully opened it. Other advice was radioed to the Borie from Wallops Island.

It took 30 minutes to do this, and by that time Sam had been strapped in his three-foot-long chamber for more than six hours. He was in no danger of suffocation because he had a 40-hour supply of oxygen with him.

Word was flashed from the destroyer to Wallops Island and Dale Smith, veterinarian for the

Darin Quizzed In Payola Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Bobby Darin, whose high-powered vocalizing on "Mack the Knife" brought him quick fame, appeared briefly Friday in Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan's "payola" investigation.

Sources said that Darin had been questioned about his appearances on disc jockey Alan Freed's radio and TV shows.

Darin declined comment on the line of questioning, although admitting it concerned the record business.

Freed, a pioneer exponent of rock 'n' roll, recently was fired by the American Broadcasting Co. for refusing to sign a statement that he had never taken payola for plugging certain records or singers. He later parted company from New York TV station WNEW "by mutual consent."

Broadway singer Eileen Rogers also stopped in at Hogan's office. Miss Rogers said she had been questioned about checks in connection with the Freed shows. She denied to newsmen that she had ever paid any money to Freed.

VA Doctor Reports On Cancer Study

Claims Tissue Changes Caused By Heavy Smoking

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Veterans Administration scientist said Friday studies of 238 men who smoked more than a half pack of cigarettes daily showed cell changes which "probably represent a change toward cancer."

The Tobacco Research Committee immediately challenged the statements by Dr. Oscar Auerbach, an associate professor at New York Medical College and who is on the staff of the East Orange, N.J., Veterans Administration hospital.

Dr. Robert C. Hockett of the tobacco committee said "these same observations first publicized by Dr. Auerbach in 1956 have not since been accepted by many other pathologists doing the same type of work and frequently studying many more lungs."

Auerbach's report was made at the annual clinical session of the American Medical Assn. meeting here.

Depend On Quantity

He said lung cancer and conditions which lead to it "depend almost completely on the number of cigarettes smoked."

Tests were made on lung tissue from 402 men who died.

All the 63 who died of lung cancer were smokers, 60 of them using cigarettes, the report stated.

Of the remaining 339 men who died of causes other than lung cancer, 238 had smoked one-half pack or more of cigarettes daily. The report said this group showed cell changes which "probably represent a change toward cancer."

Of the 55 who did not smoke or were light smokers, few changes in lung tissues were seen by Dr. Auerbach and a staff including Dr. Arthur Purdy Stout of Columbia University and Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

The report said: "Smoking habits determined not only whether each individual had lung disease, but also the amount of cancerous, non-cancerous and pre-cancerous 'damage done to the lung tissues.'"

Among smokers, as many as 75 per cent showed malignant cancerous change in the lining of the lungs which had not penetrated into the lung. The greatest percentage was in the group which smoked the most cigarettes.

Includes 63 Deaths

The 238 whose lungs showed cell changes probably representing "a change toward cancer" included the 63 who died of cancer.

Said Auerbach, "These anatomical observations seem to us to indicate that cigarette smoking is today a major factor in the causation of lung cancer in men. This is in complete agreement with evidence previously obtained from extensive epidemiological (statistical) studies."

Dr. Hockett of the tobacco committee disagreed, saying "recent contradictions to the Auerbach findings make three clear points: 'First, cell changes found in human lungs occur in young or old, smokers and nonsmokers. They are not limited to smokers. 'Second, lungs of heavy smokers may show no signs of such changes, so smoking does not necessarily lead to these changes. 'Third, many pathologists differ from Dr. Auerbach as to what is meant by a 'pre-cancerous' condition or by 'cancer-in-situ' (change in lining of the lung which has not penetrated into the lungs)."

Nine Firms Accused In Payola Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission Friday accused nine companies, including Radio Corp. of America, of deceiving the public and suppressing competition by lavishing payola on radio and television disc jockeys.

Separate complaints were filed against three record manufacturers and six independent record distributors.

The television industry meanwhile amended its code of conduct to ban rigged quiz shows, payola and deceptive advertising. The television board of the National Assn. of Broadcasters said it acted to clean its own house. The Federal Trade Commission did not name any of the disc jockeys allegedly paid to plug the records handled by the nine companies.

It merely said that, because the platter-spinners concealed the payments from the public, their fans were misled into buying records they otherwise might have passed up.

The commission said the payments by the companies have the ability to suppress competition and snag business unfairly from competitors in violation of the FTC Act.

The three record-makers named in the complaints are: Radio Corp. of America, New York City; London Records, Inc., New York City; and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

The distributors are: Edward S. Barsky, Inc., Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Record Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., all of Philadelphia, and Main Line Cleveland, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

The FTC said disc jockeys who received under-the-table payments played the same records as often as 6 to 10 times a day. It reported that this substantially boosted the sales of these records and gave them an advantage in popularity polls.

The companies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

Anonymous Cash Gifts Given To Poor Families

ATLANTA (UPI) — Scores of Negro families in two large southern cities received unexpected Christmas windfalls Friday—gifts of crisp new $50 bills from an anonymous donor.

Two men, a white man and a Negro, made the rounds of residences in poor Negro districts in Birmingham and Atlanta handing out dozens of fifties to speechless but grateful residents.

Pearl Jackson, 51, was sitting in her $4 a week apartment wondering where she would get the money to buy some coal. She wouldn't answer the knock at the door, fearing it was a bill collector.

Then she saw a white envelope slipped beneath the front door. She opened it and found two $50 bills.

In several cases the men distributed the money in envelopes tucked under doors, and in others they asked how many members were in the family and peeled off end of their career as a quartet.

Gary, the oldest at 26, preceded the others back to the United States by plane. Arrangements were made for him to be met at the airport in Los Angeles by Dr. Dennis said "we did some pretense the same pair. They began to bad shows. Let's face it." Lind-

Cold War Topics In Discussion

President Attends Gala Reception In Rome, Leaves Early

ROME (AP) — President Eisenhower brought his good-will mission to rainy Rome Friday, talked cold war issues with Italian officials, and capped his day by attending a gala reception for 3,000 persons.

The reception, drawing members of Rome's political and diplomatic set, highlighted the first day of Eisenhower's 11-nation trip. Eisenhower stayed at the reception less than half an hour, heading up the stairs to his apartment in rambling Quirinal Palace at 10:30 p.m. The guests had been invited for 9:15 p.m.—an hour earlier than state receptions usually are held here — so the President could get to bed early at the end of his tiring first day.

Eisenhower, ruddy-faced and hearty, arrived at 10 p.m. after a dinner with President Giovanni Gronchi, Premier Antonio Segni and other Italian officials. He moved slowly through 20 lavishly furnished chambers filled with guests. The President smiled at all and stopped many times to shake hands with persons he recognized.

Talks Bear Fruit

There were indications that his conversations with Italian leaders before dinner had borne fruit in dealing with cold war topics and Italian-American relations. No details were disclosed but there was much serious talk with indications the discussion had gone to the core of important matters.

Eisenhower will hold longer talks with Segni Saturday.

The President exposed himself to the unruly elements Friday, baring his head twice in the chilling rain that fell during the arrival ceremonies.

This aroused some concern for his health, since he is susceptible to colds, but the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Eisenhower was suffering no ill effects.

"I asked the President and I asked his doctor," Hagerty said.

Most of the cheers and excitement were taken out of the President's arrival on the first leg of his 22,000 mile tour by drizzle and showers that kept away the crowds.

The rain squalls kept the presidential jet plane circling over Ciampino Airport for 26 minutes. Then it made a smooth landing — to the relief of officials on hand for the official welcome to Italy, first of 11 countries on Eisenhower's mission.

Mostly the citizens of Rome, who hate foul weather, stayed close to television sets and radios for the welcome.

The President brought them a message of "peace and friendship—in freedom," and said this is the message he also will take to the other 10 countries he will visit. He said he hopes this message will get through "in every country where communications are allowed freely."

Eisenhower had his first talk—of less than an hour—Friday night with Gronchi.

Guests Of Honor

Gronchi was accompanied by Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella, Manlio Brosio, the Italian ambassador.

Crosbys Quit Night Club

NEW YORK (UPI) —Three of the singing Crosby brothers said Friday they cut short a Canadian engagement because Gary has a throat ailment that might require a "simple" operation.

They said a "little difference" developed among them at the El Morocco Club in Montreal Thursday night when Gary insisted on continuing despite the condition of his throat.

All three denied that a feud had developed which could mean the end of their career as a quartet. Gary, the oldest at 26, preceded the others back to the United States by plane. Arrangements were made for him to be met at the airport in Los Angeles by Dr. Dennis said "we did some pretense the same pair. They began to bad shows. Let's face it." Lind-

The chamber was carried to the destroyer's sick bay and — with Capt. Geisler giving instructions by radio—the Borie's sailors carefully opened it. Other advice was radioed to the Borie from Wallops Island.

It took 30 minutes to do this, and by that time Sam had been strapped in his three-foot-long chamber for more than six hours. He was in no danger of suffocation because he had a 40-hour supply of oxygen with him.

Darin Quizzed In Payola Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Singer Bobby Darin, whose high-powered vocalizing on "Mack the Knife" brought him quick fame, appeared briefly Friday in Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan's "payola" investigation.

Sources said that Darin had been questioned about his appearances on disc jockey Alan Freed's radio and TV shows.

Darin declined comment on the line of questioning, although admitting it concerned the record business.

Freed, a pioneer exponent of rock 'n' roll, recently was fired by the American Broadcasting Co. for refusing to sign a statement that he had never taken payola for plugging certain records or singers. He later parted company from New York TV station WNEW by mutual consent.

Broadway singer Eileen Rogers also stopped in at Hogan's office. Miss Rogers said she had been questioned about checks in connection with the Freed shows. She denied to newsmen that she had ever paid any money to Freed.

VA Doctor Reports On Cancer Study

Claims Tissue Changes Caused By Heavy Smoking

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Veterans Administration scientist said Friday studies of 238 men who smoked more than a half pack of cigarettes daily showed cell changes which "probably represent a change toward cancer."

The Tobacco Research Committee immediately challenged the statements by Dr. Oscar Auerbach, an associate professor at New York Medical College and who is on the staff of the East Orange, N.J., Veterans Administration hospital.

Dr. Robert C. Hockett of these same observations first publicized by Dr. Auerbach in 1956 have not since been accepted by many other pathologists doing the same type of work and frequently studying many more lungs.

Auerbach's report was made at the annual clinical session of the American Medical Assn. meeting here.

Depend On Quantity

He said lung cancer and conditions which lead to it "depend almost completely on the number of cigarettes smoked."

Tests were made on lung tissue from 402 men who died.

All the 63 who died of lung cancer were smokers, 60 of them using cigarettes, the report stated.

Of the remaining 339 men who died of causes other than lung cancer, 238 had smoked one-half pack or more of cigarettes daily. The report said this group showed cell changes which "probably represent a change toward cancer."

Of the 55 who did not smoke or were light smokers, few changes in lung cells were seen by Dr. Auerbach and a staff including Dr. Arthur Purdy Stout of Columbia University and Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

The report said: "Smoking habits determined not only whether each individual had lung disease, but also the amount of cancerous, non-cancerous and pre-cancerous 'damage done to the lung tissues.'"

Among smokers, as many as 75 per cent showed malignant cancerous change in the lining of the lungs which had not penetrated into the lung. The greatest percentage was in the group which smoked the most cigarettes.

Includes 63 Deaths

The 238 whose lungs showed cell changes probably representing "a change toward cancer" included the 63 who died of cancer.

Said Auerbach, "These anatomical observations seem to us to indicate that cigarette smoking is today a major factor in the causation of lung cancer in men. This is in complete agreement with evidence previously obtained from extensive epidemiological (statistical) studies."

Dr. Hockett of the tobacco committee disagreed, saying "recent contradictions to the Auerbach findings make three clear points: 'First, cell changes found in human lungs occur in young or old, smokers and nonsmokers. They are not limited to smokers. 'Second, lungs of heavy smokers may show no signs of such changes, so smoking does not necessarily lead to these changes. 'Third, many pathologists differ from Dr. Auerbach as to what is meant by a 'pre-cancerous' condition or by 'cancer-in-situ' (change in lining of the lung which has not penetrated into the lungs.)"

Nine Firms Accused In Payola Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission Friday accused nine companies, including Radio Corp. of America, of deceiving the public and suppressing competition by lavishing payola on radio and television disc jockeys.

Separate complaints were filed against three record manufacturers and six independent record distributors.

The television industry meanwhile amended its code of conduct to ban rigged quiz shows, payola and deceptive advertising. The television board of the National Assn. of Broadcasters said it acted to clean its own house.

The Federal Trade Commission did not name any of the disc jockeys allegedly paid to plug the records handled by the nine companies.

It merely said that, because the platters were concealed the payments from the public, their fans were misled into buying records they otherwise might have passed up.

The commission said the payments by the companies have the ability to suppress competition and snag business unfairly from competitors in violation of the FTC Act.

The three record-makers named in the complaints are: Radio Corp. of America, New York City; London Records, Inc., New York City; and Bernard Lowe Enterprises, Inc., Philadelphia.

The distributors are: Edward S. Barsky, Inc., Chips Distributing Co., Inc., David Rosen, Inc., Universal Record Distributing Corp., and Sparks Music Distributors, Inc., all of Philadelphia, and Main Line Cleveland, Inc., Cleveland, Ohio.

The FTC said disc jockeys who received under-the-table payments played the same records as often as 6 to 10 times a day. It reported that this substantially boosted the sales of these records and gave them an advantage in popularity polls.

The companies have 30 days in which to answer the complaints.

Cold War Topics In Discussion

President Attends Gala Reception In Rome, Leaves Early

ROME (AP) — President Eisenhower brought his good-will mission to rainy Rome Friday, talked cold war issues with Italian officials, and capped his day by attending a gala reception for 3,000 persons.

The reception, drawing members of Rome's political and diplomatic set, highlighted the first day of Eisenhower's 11-nation trip.

Eisenhower stayed at the reception less than half an hour, heading up the stairs to his apartment in rambling Quirinal Palace at 10:30 p.m. The guests had been invited for 9:15 p.m.—most an hour earlier than state receptions usually are held here — so the President could get to bed early at the end of his tiring first day.

Eisenhower, ruddy-faced and hearty, arrived at 10 p.m. after a dinner with President Giovanni Gronchi, Premier Antonio Segni and other Italian officials. He moved slowly through 20 lavishly furnished chambers filled with guests. The President smiled at all and stopped many times to shake hands with persons he recognized.

Talks Bear Fruit

There were indications that his conversations with Italian leaders before dinner had borne fruit in dealing with cold war topics and Italian-American relations. No details were disclosed but there was much serious talk with indications the discussion had gone to the core of important matters.

Eisenhower will hold longer talks with Segni Saturday.

The President exposed himself to the unruly elements Friday, baring his head twice in the chilling rain that fell during the arrival ceremonies.

This aroused some concern for his health, since he is susceptible to colds, but the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Eisenhower was suffering no ill effects.

"I asked the President and I asked his doctor," Hagerty said. "Most of the cheers and excitement were taken out of the President's arrival on the first leg of his 22,000 mile tour by drizzle and showers that kept away the crowds."

The rain squalls kept the presidential jet plane circling over Ciampino Airport for 26 minutes. Then it made a smooth landing—to the relief of officials on hand for the official welcome to Italy, first of 11 countries on Eisenhower's mission.

Mostly the citizens of Rome, who hate foul weather, stayed close to television sets and radios for the welcome.

The President brought them a message of "peace and friendship—in freedom," and said this is the message he also will take to the other 10 countries he will visit. He said he hopes this message will get through "in every country where communications are allowed freely."

Eisenhower had his first talk—of less than an hour—Friday night with Gronchi.

Crosbys Quit Night Club

NEW YORK (UPI) —Three of the singing Crosby brothers said Friday they cut short a Canadian engagement because Gary has a throat ailment that might require a "simple" operation.

They said a "little difference" developed among them at the El Morocco Club in Montreal Thursday night when Gary insisted on continuing despite the condition of his throat.

All three denied that a feud had developed which could mean the end of their career as a quartet.

Gary, the oldest at 26, preceded the others back to the United States by plane. Arrangements were made for him to be met at the airport in Los Angeles by Dr. Joel Pressman.

Dennis said "we did some pretense the same pair. They began to bad shows. Let's face it." Lind-

John Holcombe Surprised By Appointment

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first thing John L. Holcombe did Friday after learning he had been named head of the new Bureau of Labor-Management Reports was to call Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell.

"How come you picked me?" asked the 48-year-old career government administrator. He hadn't even applied for the job.

He learned that a panel of government personnel experts, asked by Mitchell to find a top civil service man to police the anticorruption provisions of the new labor law, had screened a long list of candidates and come up with him.

Holcombe built the reputation that led to his selection during a 23-year career in Washington, the last dozen of them in the Defense Department, where he helped plan the military assistance program. He had also worked in the Labor Department and the Veterans Administration.

He'll be taking a $1,500-a-year pay cut when he moves into his $17,500 job on Jan. 6, but he's more than happy to do it.

"This is a very significant job," he told an interviewer Friday. "And that more than makes up for the money."

Holcombe will eventually head a bureau employing about 200 persons here and in field offices across the country. The new, detailed financial and procedural reports now required from unions and management consultants will be filed with the bureau, which will be responsible for policing instances of fraud, and irregularities within unions and among employers.

Holcombe said he intends to make sure that the new law is administered "right down the middle of the road with no undue restraints on anyone."

He hadn't even read the new labor act setting up the bureau when he received word of his appointment. But he has plans to take care of that. An infantry colonel in the reserve, he leaves Saturday for two weeks' active duty in the Southern California desert and his duffel bag will include a copy of the Landrum-Griffin labor bill and several thousand pages of Senate committee testimony dealing with union corruption.

Candy Barr Enters Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Strip-teaser Candy Barr entered the Texas State Prison with a smile on her face and a Bible in her arms Friday to begin a 15-year sentence for possession of marijuana.

"I've always wanted a brick house of my own and now it looks like I've got one," Candy joked as she walked up the steps to the main gate of the red brick prison.

Deputy Sheriff Allan Sweatt, who brought her by automobile from San Antonio where she surrendered Thursday, said she appeared "ready to do her time—just another gal going to prison."

Candy, 25, was convicted of possession of marijuana in Dallas in February, 1958. The case twice went to the U.S. Supreme Court. Fred Semann, her lawyer, said he will not give up the fight to get her out of there. Semann, who was not her attorney at the original trial, claims the search warrant and his duffel bag will include a copy of the Landrum-Griffin labor bill and several thousand pages of Senate committee testimony dealing with union corruption.

Baltimore Police Combat Crime Wave

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Every man that can walk a beat is out," City Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron said Friday as officials declared an all-out war on crime.

A series of pre-Christmas holdups, yokings and purse snatchings prompted the assignment of all available men to foot duty.

Hepbron said each year between Thanksgiving and Christmas there is a jump in the city's crime rate. It usually slackens off after Christmas.

Judges Study Plea To Reduce Death Sentence

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Two circuit court judges took under consideration Friday a plea that they reduce the death sentence of John Leo Brady, one of two men convicted in the murder of William Brooks of Odenton.

The Rev. Francis M. Tobey, Roman Catholic chaplain at the Maryland Penitentiary, told Judges Benjamin Michaelson and Matthew S. Evans "I sincerely, before my God in heaven, believe with all my strength that John Brady is not deserving of the supreme penalty of death."

E. Clinton Bamberger Jr., Baltimore attorney who took on Brady's case recently without fee, also urged that the sentence be mitigated. He said Brady, although helping to plot the robbery of Brooks, a semi-invalid, was shocked when Brooks was killed.

Bamberger indicated that Charles D. Boblit, 25, who also is in the Maryland Penitentiary deathhouse, was responsible for Brooks' murder. The slaying occurred on a road near Odenton June 27, 1958.

Brady's only participation in the crime was that he was present when the crime was committed, the attorney argued.

At their separate trials, the two men blamed each other for the actual slaying. They testified they waylaid Brooks to take his car for a bank robbery they hoped to pull.

C. Osborne Duvall, Anne Arundel County State's attorney, argued that the two men are implicated together to such a degree that both should receive the same punishment. He reiterated that "Brady was the instigator, the planner" of the bank robbery scheme which resulted in Brooks' death.

Boblit did not file for a reduction of sentence, but both he and Brady have petitioned Gov. Tawes for executive clemency. They were scheduled to die in the gas chamber next week but the governor granted indefinite stays of execution pending the outcome of Brady's legal efforts and hearings their attorneys have requested before him.

Contractor Gets 9-Months Term

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Washington contractor Friday was sentenced to nine months in prison for federal income tax evasion. Weldon H. Phillips, 69 (of 906 Crittendon St. N.W.), pleaded guilty to the charge of evading $1,831 in taxes for 1956.

Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen passed sentence in Federal Court. Phillips was released in $1,000 bond and given 30 days to take care of personal affairs.

Phillips specialized in church construction.

Dairy Farmers To Vote On Milk Order

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dairy farmers will vote Dec. 11 on the proposed establishment of a federal milk marketing order for the area which supplies Baltimore and surrounding counties.

A number of the producers are located in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia, and will join Maryland in the balloting to be conducted by the Department of Agriculture marketing division.

The voting will be held at county agents offices from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Friday.

Voting places will be in Annapolis, Towson, Frederick, Denton, Westminster, Elkton, Prince Frederick, Cambridge, Bel Air, Ellicott City, Chestertown, Upper Marlboro, Centerville, Princess Anne, Easton, Salisbury, Snow Hill and Hagerstown.

Virginia polling places will be in Berryville, Winchester and Leesburg and those in West Virginia will be at Martinsburg and Charles Town.

The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., which represents about 1,700 of the 2,400 shippers to Baltimore Dairies, backed the effort to obtain the order on which hearings were held last winter.

Federal marketing officials recommended approval to the secretary of agriculture.

A majority of two-thirds of those voting favorably is required to put the order regulating prices into effect.

40 Persons Saved In Tenement Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—Forty persons, including a 62-year-old bedridden woman, were evacuated Friday from 13 homes when fire broke out in one row house and spread to adjacent structures.

Police went from door to door ordering residents to leave. They found Mrs. Bertha Ward, an invalid Negro, in one house and called an ambulance crew to carry her from her second floor apartment in a chair.

No one was injured. The blaze was brought under control in about an hour. It caused smoke damage in almost every house on the block.

Blast Rips Tanker Off N. C. Coast

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — An explosion in the forward hold ripped the deck and hull of the 572-foot tanker S. S. Gulf Tiger Friday near the Atlantic's feared "graveyard of ships."

Aid was rushed in response to an SOS from the distressed vessel lying dead in calm seas off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The Gulf Tiger radioed later she was proceeding to Norfolk, crawling at six knots in moderate seas with a Coast Guard escort. A cutter was assigned to accompany the vessel into Norfolk. She was due late Saturday or early Sunday.

Afterward, Eisenhower and his party were guests of honor at a formal dinner given by Gronchi. Rome, usually sunny, was having a fourth straight day of rain as the President arrived.

The President stepped briskly down a ramp decorated with American and Italian flags. He shook hands with Gronchi and other representatives of the Christian Democratic government that has kept Italy a staunch ally of the United States throughout the East-West cold war.

The President's daughter-in-law, Barbara, wearing a plastic hat cover as protection from the rain, looked on happily.

Eisenhower stood bareheaded in the rain and 48-degree temperature while an Italian air force band played a few strains from the Italian and American anthems. Then he was hustled under an umbrella to the terminal's veranda for the welcoming ceremonies.

Eisenhower, looking a little tired from the overnight trip, listened smilingly to President Gronchi's words of welcome.

Still sheltered by an umbrella, Eisenhower was escorted to a limousine flanked by helmeted motorcycle police for the trip along the 2,000-year-old Appian Way and past many monuments of Rome's ancient glories.

The crowds along the way were small. Some spectators took refuge in nooks among the ruins of the Colosseum and other landmarks to watch the motorcade go by at a fairly brisk pace.

In the city, crowds were no more than two deep, but those on hand cheered lustily.

Monkey Found

The Borie headed for Norfolk, Va., where it was due Saturday morning.

From Norfolk, Sam will be flown to the School of Aviation Medicine—from which his name was drawn—at Brooks Air Force Base in Texas.

At the school, specialists will study the monkey to gauge the longer range effects of his rocket flight.

Special Rocket Test The chief aim of the experiment was to try out at high altitude a special rocket designed to enable a future astronaut to separate the capsule from the booster if an emergency developed on a journey into space.

NASA officials reported the escape rocket worked perfectly. The space agency also was happy about the quality of information radioed from the capsule in flight. These radio signals recorded various experiments bearing on manned space exploration in the future.

In one of these, the monkey was trained to respond to a light signal by moving a lever like an airplane control stick.

Japan Abandons Efforts To Find War Stragglers

MANILA (UPI) — The Japanese Government has abandoned its efforts to find the last two known stragglers from its World War II army in the Philippines.

Japan spent $50,000 trying to persuade Lt. Hiroo Onoda and Sgt. Kinsichi Kotsuka that the war was over and they could come out of their jungle hiding places on little Lubang Island after 14 years. If they were still alive, they did not respond to the pleadings and promises.

The Japanese set Nov. 29 as their deadline to find the two men, and now has declared them presumed dead by hara-kiri.

Legion Bans 40 & 8 Society In Race Fight

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The American Legion Friday cut its public ties with its funmaking 40 & 8 Society in a fight over racial membership restrictions.

From now on the 40 & 8 will be forbidden to use the American Legion name or its emblem in any connection with its activities, announced Legion National Commander Martin McKneally.

McKneally sent word of his action to John Hobbie of Liberal, Kan., national 40 & 8 chief.

The parent legion and its 40 & 8 offspring have been arguing for several years over a society rule limiting membership to whites only. The legion itself has no racial bars on membership.

Last year, the 40 & 8 national headquarters here lifted the charter of its San Jose, Calif., chapter for admitting a Chinese-American market owner as a member.

The legion national convention in Minneapolis last August declared the 40 & 8 membership restriction illegal. Later, the legion's National Executive Committee authorized McKneally to take any steps he felt necessary to solve the problem.

The 40 & 8 was named for World War I French railroad cars, which carried the sign "40 et 8"—40 men or 8 horses.

Truck Tangles With Motorcade

ROME (UPI) — A tiny Italian truck loaded with wine got tangled up in the Eisenhower motorcade students who would like to enroll in colleges and universities.

The Hopkins vice president said it was chugging along toward Rome when the official motorcade started closing in from behind. The road was so narrow at that point.

Pitt cited one Midwest state that Eisenhower's car could not university which he said offers 147 pass. After a mile of patience, physical education courses including square dance calling, hiking sidetrack the truck.

Union Delegates Seek Change In Jobless Pay Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Delegates to the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO voted Friday to seek changes in Maryland unemployment compensation law to prevent its use "as an economic weapon against unions."

The delegates, adjourning their second annual convention, adopted a resolution condemning actions by the Bethlehem Steel Co. and interpretations of the State unemployment compensation laws.

The resolution said the company took an adamant position on an agreement to which the union could not agree, laid off thousands of shipyard workers at the Key Highway shipyard "regardless of the need for such layoffs, and then protested the payments of unemployment compensation, claiming that a work stoppage, due to a labor dispute existed even though no strike action of any kind occurred."

The resolution said that upon receipt of the company protest the Employment Security Board denied payment to the idle workers.

The delegates adopted a constitutional amendment to provide for conventions every year instead of every two.

The proposal first met with vigorous opposition, chiefly on the grounds of additional expense. But the constitution committee and executive board later came up with proposals to cut such expenses for the locals. Included in these was elections every two years, instead of each year, for delegates to the conventions.

The yearly convention will start in 1961. The time and place for that convention will be selected by the executive board.

The convention also adopted resolutions:

1. Urging study of the possibility of publishing a daily labor paper with up to eight regional editions in the United States.

2. Urging the Governor of Maryland and General Assembly members to support passage of a prevailing wage law on Maryland State financed construction similar to a 1950 law later nullified by the courts.

3. To set up a public relations program to inform the State and district of the ideals, traditions, and goals of the labor movement.

Pupils To Attend Fire Hall Classes

PRESTON, Md. (AP) — Fifth and sixth grade pupils of the Preston consolidated school will report for classes Monday at the town's firemen's hall.

The temporary classrooms have been set up because of a fire which swept the big school Wednesday and forced suspension of school work.

School officials said Friday that all other grades will be able to report for classes Monday in the building where flames caused from $75,000 to $100,000 damage.

Students, teachers, and citizens have been assisting in the cleanup operation. The school has an enrollment of 425 pupils.

"This is a very significant job," he told an interviewer Friday. "And that more than makes up for the money."

Holcombe will eventually head a bureau employing about 200 persons here and in field offices across the country. The new, detailed financial and procedural reports now required from unions and management consultants will be filed with the bureau, which will be responsible for policing instances of fraud, and irregularities within unions and among employers.

Holcombe said he intends to make sure that the new law is administered "right down the middle of the road with no undue restraints on anyone."

He hadn't even read the new labor act setting up the bureau when he received word of his appointment. But he has plans to take care of that. An infantry colonel in the reserve, he leaves Saturday for two weeks' active duty at the original in the Southern California desert trial, claims the search warrant and his duffel bag will include a used to enter her Dallas apartment and several thousand pages of Senate committee testimony dealing with union corruption.

Candy Barr Enters Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Strip-teaser Candy Barr entered the Texas State Prison with a smile on her face and a Bible in her arms Friday to begin a 15-year sentence for possession of marijuana.

"I've always wanted a brick house of my own and now it looks like I've got one," Candy joked as she walked up the steps to the main gate of the red brick prison.

Deputy Sheriff Allan Sweet, who brought her by automobile from San Antonio where she surrendered Thursday, said she appeared "ready to do her time—just another gal going to prison."

Candy, 25, was convicted of possession of marijuana in Dallas in February, 1958. The case twice went to the U.S. Supreme Court. Fred Semann, her lawyer, said take care of that. Baltimore Police Combat Crime Wave

BALTIMORE (AP)—"Every man that can walk a beat is out," City Police Commissioner James M. Hebron said Friday as officials declared an all-out war on crime.

A series of pre-Christmas hold-ups, yokings and purse snatchings prompted the assignment of all available men to foot duty.

Hebron said each year between Thanksgiving and Christmas there is a jump in the city's crime rate. It usually slackens off after Christmas.

Judges Study Plea To Reduce Death Sentence

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Two circuit court judges took under consideration Friday a plea that they reduce the death sentence of John Leo Brady, one of two men convicted in the murder of William Brooks of Odenton.

The Rev. Francis M. Tobey, Roman Catholic chaplain at the Maryland Penitentiary, told Judges Benjamin Michaelson and Matthew S. Evans "I sincerely, before my God in heaven, believe with all my strength that John Brady is not deserving of the supreme penalty of death."

E. Clinton Bamberger Jr., Baltimore attorney who took on Brady's case recently without fee, also urged that the sentence be mitigated. He said Brady, although helping to plot the robbery of Brooks, a semi-invalid, was shocked when Brooks was killed.

Bamberger indicated that Charles D. Bobbit, 25, who also is in the Maryland Penitentiary deathhouse, was responsible for Brooks' murder. The slaying occurred on a road near Odenton June 27, 1958.

Brady's only participation in the crime was that he was present when the crime was committed, the attorney argued.

At their separate trials, the two men blamed each other for the actual slaying. They testified they waylaid Brooks to take his car for a bank robbery they hoped to pull.

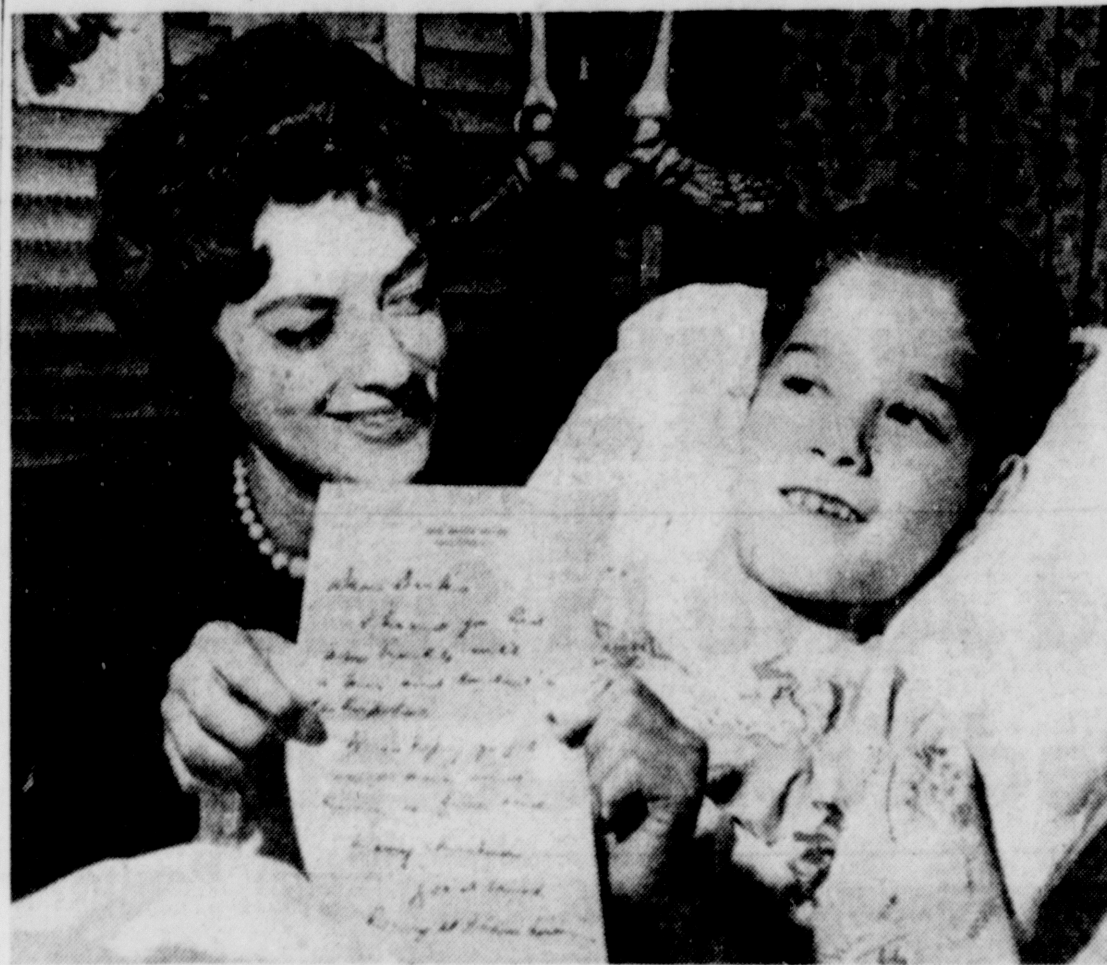

C. Osborne Duvall, Anne Arundel County State's attorney, argued that the two men are implicated together to such a degree that both should receive the same punishment. He reiterated that "Brady was the instigator, the planner" of the bank robbery scheme which resulted in Brooks' death.

Bobbit did not file for a reduction of sentence, but both he and Brady have petitioned Gov. Tawes for executive clemency. They were scheduled to die in the gas chamber next week but the governor granted indefinite stays of execution pending the outcome of Brady's legal efforts and hearings their attorneys have requested before him.

Contractor Gets 9-Months Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Washington contractor Friday was sentenced to nine months in prison for federal income tax evasion. Weldon H. Phillips, 69 (of 906 Crittendon St. N.W.), pleaded guilty to the charge of evading $1,881 in taxes for 1956.

Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen passed sentence in Federal Court. Phillips was released in $1,000 bond and given 30 days to take care of personal affairs. Phillips specialized in church construction.

Dairy Farmers To Vote On Milk Order

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dairy farmers will vote Dec. 11 on the proposed establishment of a federal milk marketing order for the area which supplies Baltimore and surrounding counties.

A number of the producers are located in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia, and will join Maryland in the balloting to be conducted by the Department of Agriculture marketing division.

The voting will be held at county agents offices from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Friday.

Voting places will be in Annapolis, Towson, Frederick, Denton, Westminster, Elkton, Prince Frederick, Cambridge, Bel Air, Ellicott City, Chestertown, Upper Marlboro, Centerville, Princess Anne, Easton, Salisbury, Snow Hill and Hagerstown.

Virginia polling places will be in Berryville, Winchester and Leesburg and those in West Virginia will be at Martinsburg and Charles Town.

The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., which represents about 1,700 of the 2,400 shippers to Baltimore Dairies, backed the effort to obtain the order on which hearings were held last winter.

Federal marketing officials recommended approval to the secretary of agriculture. A majority of two-thirds of those voting favorably is required to put the order regulating prices into effect.

Blast Rips Tanker Off N. C. Coast

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—An explosion in the forward hold ripped the deck and hull of the 572-foot tanker S. S. Gulf Tiger Friday near the Atlantic's feared "graveyard of ships."

Aid was rushed in response to an SOS from the distressed vessel lying dead in calm seas off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The Gulf Tiger radioed later she was proceeding to Norfolk, crawling at six knots in moderate seas with a Coast Guard escort. A cutter was assigned to accompany the vessel into Norfolk. She was due late Saturday or early Sunday.

Cold War

Afterward, Eisenhower and his party were guests of honor at a formal dinner given by Gronchi. Rome, usually sunny, was having a fourth straight day of rain as the President arrived.

The President stepped briskly down a ramp decorated with American and Italian flags. He shook hands with Gronchi and other representatives of the Christian Democratic government that has kept Italy a staunch ally of the United States throughout the East-West cold war.

The President's daughter-in-law, Barbara, wearing a plastic hat cover as protection from the rain, looked on happily.

Eisenhower stood bareheaded in the rain and 48-degree temperature while an Italian air force band played a few strains from the Italian and American anthems. Then he was hustled under an umbrella to the terminal's veranda for the welcoming ceremonies.

Eisenhower, looking a little tired from the overnight trip, listened smilingly to President Gronchi's words of welcome.

Still sheltered by an umbrella, Eisenhower was escorted to a limousine flanked by helmeted motorcycle police for the trip along the 2,000-year-old Appian Way and past many monuments of Rome's ancient glories.

The crowds along the way were small. Some spectators took refuge in nooks among the ruins of the Colosseum and other landmarks to watch the motorcade go by at a fairly brisk pace.

In the city, crowds were no more than two deep, but those on hand cheered lustily.

Smith said Sam seemed perfectly alert, entirely normal and showed no adverse effects.

The Borie headed for Norfolk, Va., where it was due Saturday morning.

From Norfolk, Sam will be flown to the School of Aviation Medicine—from which his name was drawn—at Brooks Air Force Base in Texas.

At the school, specialists will study the monkey to gauge the longer range effects of his rocket flight.

Special Rocket Test The chief aim of the experiment was to try out at high altitude a special rocket designed to enable a future astronaut to separate the capsule from the booster if an emergency developed on a journey into space.

NASA officials reported the escape rocket worked perfectly.

The space agency also was happy about the quality of information radioed from the capsule in flight. These radio signals recorded various experiments bearing on manned space exploration in the future.

In one of these, the monkey was trained to respond to a light signal by moving a lever like an airplane control stick.

Japan Abandons Efforts To Find War Stragglers

MANILA (UPI)—The Japanese Government has abandoned its efforts to find the last two known stragglers from its World War II army in the Philippines.

Japan spent $50,000 trying to persuade Lt. Hiroo Onoda and Sgt. Kinsichi Kotsuka that the war was over and they could come out of their jungle hiding places on little Lubang Island after 14 years. If they were still alive, they did not respond to the pleadings and promises.

The Japanese set Nov. 29 as their deadline to find the two men, and now has declared them presumed dead by hara-kiri.

Union Delegates Seek Change In Jobless Pay Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Delegates to the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO voted Friday to seek changes in Maryland unemployment compensation law to prevent its use "as an economic weapon against unions."

The delegates, adjourning their second annual convention, adopted a resolution condemning actions by the Bethlehem Steel Co. and interpretations of the State unemployment compensation laws.

The resolution said the company took an adamant position on an agreement to which the union could not agree, laid off thousands of shipyard workers at the Key Highway shipyard "regardless of the need for such layoffs, and then protested the payments of unemployment compensation, claiming that a work stoppage, due to a labor dispute existed even though no strike action of any kind occurred."

The resolution said that upon receipt of the company protest the Employment Security Board denied payment to the idle workers.

The delegates adopted a constitutional amendment to provide for conventions every year instead of every two.

The proposal first met with vigorous opposition, chiefly on the grounds of additional expense. But the constitution committee and executive board later came up with proposals to cut such expenses for the locals. Included in these were elections every two years, instead of each year, for delegates to the conventions.

The yearly convention will start in 1961. The time and place for that convention will be selected by the executive board.

The convention also adopted resolutions:

1. Urging study of the possibility of publishing a daily labor paper with up to eight regional editions in the United States.

2. Urging the Governor of Maryland and General Assembly members to support passage of a prevailing wage law on Maryland State financial construction similar to a 1950 law later nullified by the courts.

3. To set up a public relations program to inform the State and district of the ideals, traditions, and goals of the labor movement.

Legion Bans 40 & 8 Society In Race Fight

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The American Legion Friday cut its public ties with its funmaking 40 & 8 Society in a fight over racial membership restrictions.

From now on the 40 & 8 will be forbidden to use the American Legion name or its emblem in any connection with its activities, announced Legion National Commander Martin McKneally.

McKneally sent word of his action to John Hobbie of Liberal, Kan., national 40 & 8 chief.

The parent legion and its 40 & 8 offspring have been arguing for several years over a society rule limiting membership to whites only. The legion itself has no racial bars on membership.

Last year, the 40 & 8 national headquarters here lifted the charter of its San Jose, Calif., chapter for admitting a Chinese-American market owner as a member.

The legion national convention in Minneapolis last August declared the 40 & 8 membership restriction illegal. Later, the legion's National Executive Committee authorized McKneally to take any steps he felt necessary to solve the problem.

The 40 & 8 was named for World War I French railroad cars, which carried the sign "40 & 8"—40 men or 8 horses.

Truck Tangles With Motorcade

ROME (UPI)—A tiny Italian truck loaded with wine got tangled up in the Eisenhower motorcade on the old Appian Way Friday and it took a mile of maneuvering to sort things out.

The truck was chugging along toward Rome when the official motorcade started closing in from behind. The town's firemen's hall.

The temporary classrooms have been set up because of a fire which swept the big school Wednesday and forced suspension of school work.

School officials said Friday that all other grades will be able to report for classes Monday in the building where flames caused from $75,000 to $100,000 damage.

Students, teachers, and citizens have been assisting in the cleanup operation. The school has an enrollment of 425 pupils.

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—A smuggler was carried off a Swiss air plane in a coma at Athens airport Thursday night. He died minutes later in a hospital of suffocation. His corset, stuffed with 1,500 small watch mechanisms, was too tight.

Corset Too Tight, Smuggler Dies

ROME (UPI)—Any woman who has had a new Easter costume rained on knows how Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower felt Friday.

She dressed in a blue three-quarter coat, matching skirt, blue scarf and high-heeled pumps. All she could do was grin and bear it and try to keep under the umbrella raised over her.

The body was found by his wife, Mildred, in the living room when she started to prepare breakfast for the family and two guests.

Police said Mrs. Maser reported that her husband was restless when they retired Thursday night. She did not hear him leave the bed during the night.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is being written by a battery of boiling nurses in Rochester, Minnesota. We love your column, read it regularly and usually agree with your advice.

BUT, Annie, we can't go along with your answer to the young girl who was dating the chronic complainer — the guy who carried his thermometer in his pencil case and took his temperature several times a day. You told the girl to find another boy friend and suggested that he would make some nurse a good husband!

Every one of us whose name appears at the bottom of this letter is single — and looking. But we would prefer to die single rather than marry a man who wants nursing care 24 hours a day. We see plenty of ailing ones during business hours. We don't want to wear the cap around the clock —MAYO'S MAIDENS.

DEAR MAYO MAIDENS: Thank you (as well as the nurses from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon) for your expressions of resentment. You've got something — and I apologize for suggesting such an outlandish thing.

May you all marry robust, healthy males and live happily ever after.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl 16 and my whole life is ruined because of this one fellow I will call Ron.

We've been going steady since last April. On June 12th, he wrote in my annual "I will love you always." We exchanged rings, bracelets, sweat-shirts, and romantic records.

Yesterday he told me he was too tied up and felt like he couldn't hardly breathe and that he wants to be free.

I gave him the best year of my whole life and now he wants to break up. Ron is 17 and very good-looking. Do you think there is someone else and he's not telling me the truth?—CRUSHED.

DEAR CRUSHED: If there isn't "someone else" there ought to be. A boy 17 should not be seeing one girl exclusively. It's bad for him and no good for the girl. At 16, honey, "Too thick won't stick."

DEAR ANN: The other evening we attended a 25th anniversary party. Someone asked the hostess when she was going to open the gifts. She said "In a few minutes." Then several guests said "Oh no! It isn't proper. People don't open gifts at parties any more."

The hostess appeared embarrassed and she did NOT open the gifts. Was she right or wrong?—PITTSBURGH, A.

DEAR PITTSBURGH: My personal opinion is that gifts should be opened privately. A gift is a token important to giver and receiver and should have little meaning to others.

When I was a child and attended birthday parties the birthday girls opened gifts before all the guests. It made me sad because some kids who couldn't afford much brought modest gifts. They squirmed with embarrassment when their package was opened. I always wished they'd omit showing gifts. To this day I feel the same way.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BAD SHAPE: You wouldn't take medicine prescribed for someone else, would you? Well why take advice prescribed for a person whose situation is vastly different? THAT woman was not married and she didn't have four children.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1959, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Tips For Christmas Costuming

With just four wisely-selected costumes, you can globe trot or go anywhere at home and be well-dressed for every occasion!

Take the comprehensive suit as an example. Where can't you wear it? It goes to business, shopping, informal lunches, afternoon calls, relaxed five-to-seven occasions, exhibits, country and city clubs, church and travelling.

Of course, to cover the field like this, it must be the right kind of suit. It can't be too dressy (no fancy cut or trim), or too towny (no slick cut or hard-finished fabric), or too sporty (horsey). It should be softly tailored, all-purpose in type.

Does that mean drab? Not for a second. Any color that becomes you and the rest of your wardrobe is fine.

Right beside your suit, just as indispensable and talented, hangs the ever-ready basic daytime dress in either wool or silk. To test the wisdom of its selection, ask yourself, "Can I use it as a change from my suit for the same occasions, plus informal doings either at my home or the homes of others?"

The third basic of this model wardrobe is the answe, for such invitations as "Just having a few (probably 20) for a buffet supper —don't dress." Let it be a dark, after-five number in a lovely line and fabric, and bare-topped when its jacket is removed. With such a dress, theatres, dinner parties in private or public will never present a clothes dilemma for you.

Of course, when the party is really formal, there's no doubt in anyone's mind. All the lovelies will wear their loveliest and so will you . . . the other one-fourth of this perfect wardrobe.

Now, let the hub-bub cease about what to wear for the holiday festivities. Christmas Eve, your after-five with a red jacket. Christmas morning, your suit skirt (you will have it on to make those calls) with a white sweater. Christmas dinner, your basic dress with a sprig of holly added. Christmas dance, you know

Richard O. Beall To Wed Charlotte Colhoun Dent

Miss Charlotte Colhoun Dent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ashley Dent, Concordia, Haverford, Pa., will become the bride of Richard Olin Beall, son of United States Senator and Mrs. J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg today.

The ceremony is to be solemnized in All Saints Church, Haverford, Pa., with Rev. John Albert and Dr. Gibson Bell of Westover School, Middleburg, officiating. Single candles will line the pews and candles and greens are being used in the altar decorations. A program of organ music is to be presented.

Her heirloom veil of point d'Angleterre lace is attached to a silk tulle cap. Completing her costume, she will carry a cascade bouquet of white spray orchids with the family mother of pearl prayer book.

Her attendants' gowns are of Burgundy velvet, fashioned with scooped neckline, tight bodice, short sleeves and bell shape skirt, and have a wide satin band of the same color tied in a knot in the back, with the streamers the length of the skirt. Their headresses is a matching velvet crown and veil, and their flowers are rebrum lilies.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is being written by a battery of boiling nurses in Rochester, Minnesota. We love your column, read it regularly and usually agree with your advice.

BUT, Annie, we can't go along with your answer to the young girl who was dating the chronic complainer — the guy who carried his thermometer in his pencil case and took his temperature several times a day. You told the girl to find another boy friend and suggested that he would make some nurse a good husband.

Every one of us whose name appears at the bottom of this letter is single — and looking. But we would prefer to die single rather than marry a man who wants nursing care 24 hours a day. We see plenty of ailing ones during business hours. We don't want to wear the cap around the clock—MAYO'S MAIDENS.

DEAR MAYO'S MAIDENS: Thank you (as well as the nurses from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon) for your expressions of resentment. You've got something — and I apologize for suggesting such an outlandish thing.

May you all marry robust, healthy males and live happily ever after.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl 16 and my whole life is ruined because of this one fellow I will call Ron.

We've been going steady since last April. On June 12th, he wrote in my "annual" "I will love you always." We exchanged rings, bracelets, sweat-shirts, and romantic records.

Yesterday he told me he was too tied up and felt like he couldn't hardly breathe and that he wants to be free.

I gave him the best year of my whole life and now he wants to break up. Ron is 17 and very good-looking. Do you think there is someone else and he's not telling me the truth?—CRUSHED

DEAR CRUSHED: If there isn't "someone else" there ought to be. A boy 17 should not be seeing one girl exclusively. It's bad for him and no good for the girl. At 16, honey, "Too thick won't stick."

DEAR ANN: The other evening we attended a 25th anniversary party. Someone asked the hostess when she was going to open the gifts. She said "In a few minutes." Then several guests said "Oh no! It isn't proper. People don't open gifts at parties any more."

The hostess appeared embarrassed and she did NOT open the gifts. Was she right or wrong?—PITTSBURGH, PA.

DEAR PITTSBURGH: My personal opinion is that gifts should be opened privately. A gift is a token important to giver and receiver and should have little meaning to others.

When I was a child the attending birthday parties and birthday girls opened gifts before all the guests. It made me sad because some kids who couldn't afford much brought modest gifts. They squirmed with embarrassment when their package was opened. I always wished they'd omit showing gifts. To this day I feel the same way.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BAD SHAPE: You wouldn't take medicine prescribed for someone else, would you? Well why take advice prescribed for a person whose situation is vastly different? THAT woman was not married and she didn't have four children.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Tips For Christmas Costuming

With just four wisely-selected costumes, you can globe trot or go anywhere at home and be well-dressed for every occasion! Take the comprehensive suit as an example. Where can't you wear it? It goes to business, shopping, informal lunches, afternoon calls, relaxed five-to-seven occasions, exhibits, country and city clubs, church and travelling.

Of course, to cover the field like this, it must be the right kind of suit. It can't be too dressy (no fancy cut or trim), or too towney (no slick cut or hard-finished fabric), or too sporty (horsey). It should be softly tailored, all-purpose in type.

Does that mean drab? Not for a second. Any color that becomes you and the rest of your wardrobe is fine.

Right beside your suit, just as indispensable and talented, hangs the ever-ready basic daytime dress in either wool or silk. To test the wisdom of its selection, ask yourself, "Can I use it as a change from my suit for the same occasions, plus informal doings either at my home or the homes of others?"

The third basic of this model wardrobe is the answer, for such invitations as "Just having a few (probably 20) for a buffet supper — don't dress." Let it be a dark, after-five number in a lovely line and fabric, and bare-topped when its jacket is removed. With such a dress, theatres, dinner parties in private or public will never present a clothes dilemma for you.

Of course, when the party is really formal, there's no doubt in anyone's mind. All the love-lies will wear their loveliest and so will you . . . the other one-fourth of this perfect wardrobe.

Now, let the hub-bub cease about what to wear for the holiday festivities. Christmas Eve, your after-five with a red jacket, skirt (you will have it on to make those calls) with a white sweater. Christmas dinner, your basic dress with a sprig of holly added. Christmas dance, you know what and with stars in your eyes! MONDAY: Jangled Belles for the Holidays? SECRETS OF SKIN CARE: Is your skin dry? Only in-between! Completing her costume, she will carry a cascade bouquet of white spray orchids with the family mother of pearl prayer book.

Her attendants' gowns are of Burgundy velvet, fashioned with scooped neckline, tight bodice, short sleeves and bell shape skirt, and have a wide satin band of the same color tied in a knot in the back, with the streamers the length of the skirt. Their headdress is a matching velvet crown and veil, and their flowers are rebrum lilies.

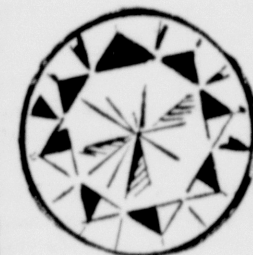

Mrs. Dent chose a gray green brocade dress with scooped neckline, front and back, and full skirt for her daughter's wedding. With it she will wear a blending orchid corsage. Mrs. Beall selected an amethyst wool suit with bow design hat in three tiers, combining lavender, aqua and royal blue. LIKE A MOUNTAIN NAMED FOR YOU?

Not one of these, certainly! They're here today, gone tomorrow. We'd gladly lend our names to a timeless peak like Everest — not to a heap of shifting sands rolling before the desert wind.

Of course, we have to identify ourselves with many a transitory idea and institution. We are busy most of our days just trying to keep up with this ever-changing world . . .

But our deeper self gropes for the Eternal!

God understands this yearning. He breathed it into our souls.

And God answers it: In Christ! In Scripture! In the voice of a neighbor inviting you and your family to Church.

A voice crying in the wilderness . . . across the shifting sands . . . of the TRUTH and LIFE that are ETERNAL.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LIKE A MOUNTAIN NAMED FOR YOU?

Not one of these, certainly! They're here today, gone tomorrow. We'd gladly lend our names to a timeless peak like Everest — not to a heap of shifting sands rolling before the desert wind.

Of course, we have to identify ourselves with many a transitory idea and institution. We are busy most of our days just trying to keep up with this ever-changing world . . .

But our deeper self gropes for the Eternal!

God understands this yearning. He breathed it into our souls.

And God answers it: In Christ! In Scripture! In the voice of a neighbor inviting you and your family to Church.

A voice crying in the wilderness . . . across the shifting sands . . . of the TRUTH and LIFE that are ETERNAL.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Coal Production Shows Increase In W. Virginia

Tonnage May Exceed Last Year

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia soft coal production so far this year showed that the 1959 output should equal or surpass the 115,245,791 tons produced last year, State Mines Director Crawford Wilson said Friday.

West Virginia mines produced 93,382,530 of coal during the first 10 months of the year compared with 91,733,634 during the same period last year.

October's production was placed at 9,611,137, a drop of about 1,000,000 tons below October, 1958.

Wilson said that since the level of production continues above that of 1958 despite the 3½ month steel strike, he believes that the long-range demand for West Virginia coal will continue to increase.

The mine employment picture, however, was not as bright. Employment during October dropped to 34,388, some 4,000 below the previous month and about 10,000 below the same month last year. The average monthly mine employment this year was about 39,000 compared with 46,600 during the first 10 months of 1958.

Seven men lost their lives in mine accidents during October compared with 49 during October, 1958. The 49 included 22 deaths in a mine accident near Bishop, Va., and 14 in another blast near Summersville the following day. Those killed last month brought the year's 11-month total to 81, compared with 139 for the corresponding period last year.

25,000 More W.Va. Needy To Get Food

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—An additional 25,000 of West Virginia's needy will become eligible for surplus food under new regulations to be put into effect soon by the State Department of Public Assistance.

DPA commodity supervisor William Waggy, noting that about 250,000 West Virginians now receive surplus commodities, said Friday the new regulations raise limits on the amount of money a family can earn and still remain eligible for the free food.

A three-day department workshop will open Monday here and at that time, the new revisions will be explained to welfare workers and supervisors of seven surplus food warehouses.

Recent hearings by a U. S. Senate subcommittee in West Virginia disclosed that many unemployed coal miners barely had enough food to prevent starvation.

These eligibility changes include:

—Changing from three or more to 10 the number of persons in one family who can earn money and raising the total from $130 to $165 per month.

—Setting up a slide scale for families with four, five or more persons working and the making the limit range in between $130 and $165.

—Increasing from $100 to $330 the amount of savings a family can have in the form of bank accounts and stocks and still be eligible for food.

Invited to attend the meeting were four federal agriculture department officials, including Philip Hearn and Charles Partiselli, both of New York; John McClellan of Philadelphia and Connie Cabooris of Washington, D. C. All work with the federal agency's commodity distribution program.

FROSTBURG—Miss Bettie Ann Umstead, a junior at Frostburg State Teachers College and a native of Olney, Md., received a National Achievement Award presented this week at Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago, at the 38th National 4-H Club Congress. The award, which carries a $400 college scholarship, was presented to Miss Umstead by Michael Radock, manager of Educational Affairs for the Ford Motor Company which sponsors 55 Achievement Awards to the outstanding youths of the nation in 4-H work.

Miss Umstead is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Umstead, RD 1, Olney. She joined the 4-H when she was 10 years old and has since won seven state honors and two national awards.

Her first club was in Sherwood School at Olney. She is presently a member of the Collegiate Club at Frostburg State. The previous national honor won was the "Home Improvement" award in 1956 which carried a $500 college scholarship. She also designed and constructed much of her own furniture. Taking pictures of the entire procedure, she then compiled the book on "Home Improvement," won a State Award and then went on to take a National Award. Her other state awards include food demonstration, poultry, leadership (twice); achievement and the 4-H Key Club. She has also been a member of the Maryland All-Stars which chooses two members from each county annually who then attend one week conference at the University of Maryland.

MICHAEL RADOCK AND BETTIE ANN UMSTEAD

Miss Umstead, along with Barbara Sherrill, were the state winners in food preparation and poultry, this past summer and attended a demonstration in Harrisburg, October 5-6-7 where they won a second prize at the North East Poultry Producers Council. They demonstrated how to prepare fillet of chicken with rice, view besides many activities of local and county clubs.

She is a holder of the 4-H Key and was an alternate state winner in 1957. This award is made to older members who work with on the basis of participation and various groups as junior and assistant leaders.

Bettie has also been a delegate to the State Older Youth Advisory Council which met at the University of Maryland and served for two years. Blue Cross Official Hits Proposed Law

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state would have "virtually unlimited power" to control and operate Blue Cross under a proposed law, a spokesman for the hospital insurance program declared Friday.

Hilary W. Gans, chairman of the by-laws committee of the Blue Cross board, criticized a measure endorsed by the Legislative Council which will go before the full General Assembly in February.

One provision would reduce the governing board in size from 21 to 15 and requires that eight would be state appointees.

Said Gans: "I cannot conceive that Blue Cross subscribers, additionally, would want the policy making body of the plan to be composed largely of persons who receive their appointments from any governmental or political office."

"The dangers inherent in such an arrangement are obvious."

Gans said it could mean the end of Blue Cross as a voluntary, non-governmental program.

The Blue Cross spokesman also belittled the proposal to reduce the size of the board. Instead, he added, it should be enlarged because of the present size and complexity of the program.

Blue Cross operations were investigated last summer by a Legislative Council committee headed by Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot).

The probe came after the State Insurance Commission approved a second sizable increase in premium rates within one year. A year ago the hike was 14 per cent and this fall, 20 per cent.

Opponents of the rate hike said Blue Cross and member hospitals were wasteful in some of their operations. Keeping patients in the hospital longer than necessary and condoning payment of some non-applicable treatment were two of the complaints.

Gans' statement Friday took issue with other parts of the North committee's report. Among them was the contention by the committee that Blue Cross was not exerting sufficient leadership in promoting efficiency and economy in hospital operations.

"Blue Cross has done and is doing a tremendous amount of work in this area," Gans said. "Both in our dealings with individual hospitals and through the hospital Council and special committees, we are actively exploring and promoting ways in which the efficiency and economy of hospital operations can be increased."

Past Month Proves Good For Building

$182,875 Estimated For 34 Permits

Despite the approach of winter and the general slackening of construction activity, November proved a good month for building permits as 34 were issued by the Allegany County assessment department for work estimated by the builders to cost a total of $182,875.

These totals brought the 11-month figures for 1959 to 387 permits for construction which the usually conservative builders estimate will cost a total of $2,536,260.

Both November totals were better than for the corresponding month a year ago when 29 permits were issued for work estimated at $138,800. Last year there also were 387 permits in the first 11 months but the total was $4,214,734. More than half of the 1958 total resulted from the single permit for a $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as well as the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

The total estimated cost of November construction was higher than all but four 1959 months. They are the spring and summer months of March, April, June and August, when building is usually at its peak.

Work in 16 different election districts was authorized by the 34 November permits. The leader was District 29 in LaVale, with seven permits, followed closely by District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, with six, and District 31, McCoole, with four permits. Only other districts with more than one November permit were District 21, Gross, with three, and Districts 6, West Side suburban, and 30, Zihlman, each with two.

There were single November permits for Districts 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 5, North End suburban; 8, Westernport suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 16, North Branch; 20, Corriganville - Ellerslie; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 27, Gilmore.

Twenty of the 34 November permits were for the construction of new dwellings. Four each were for additions to dwellings and garages. There also were two for storages and one each for a cow barn, hunting lodge, storeroom and office and skating lodge.

Accident Victim Is Unconscious

A former Cresaptown man, injured in an auto accident on November 24 has remained unconscious since that time and yesterday was removed to a Boston hospital for further examination.

He is Keith Robertson, 23, son of Mrs. Ruth Case and grandson of Orphans Court Judge and Mrs. J. French VanMeter, Cresaptown. Judge VanMeter said his grandson was injured seriously when the car he was driving skidded into a tree on the night of November 24.

He had been stationed at a Nike base at Danvers, Mass. He was removed this week from a Danvers hospital to Cable Memorial Hospital, Boston.

He became conscious only briefly for one short period since the accident.

Hi-Y To Hear New Pastor Tomorrow

Rev. Emmett M. Toepfchius, newly-appointed pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Frostburg will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Allegany County Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at Bruce High School in Westernport.

His topic of discussion will be problems confronting teen-agers when they find themselves away from home for the first time.

Carol Murray, a member of the Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y and historian of the county unit, said last night that Rev. Mr. Toepfchius was formerly at the Belle Haven (Va.) Presbyterian Church and served as a chaplain for four years in the Army.

Devotions will be led by Sandy Willetts of the Beall Tri-Hi-Y, and group singing will be led by Nancy Whitworth of Bruce Tri-Hi-Y.

Eric Fable, Allegany Hi-Y, will preside over the meeting, the topic of which will be the Youth Conference the weekend of December 12 and 13 at Newark, Del. Final plans will be made. World Service also will be discussed at the meeting, she said.

Firm Founded By Native Of County Cited

The Perfection Garment Company, founded by a former Allegany County man, was saluted Wednesday night by the Martinsburg Chamber of Commerce on the 55th anniversary of its operation.

The company was founded in 1905 by John R. Poland Sr., who worked in coal mines at Elk Garden and a store in Burlington, W. Va., before starting the business in Martinsburg in 1905.

Mr. Poland was born in 1873 at Black Oak Bottom, a son of the late Guinn and Ann Vizella Holt Poland.

He had one sewing machine and one operator when he started the firm with borrowed money and went out and sold orders.

The company now employs 500 and its sales amount to more than a million dollars a year. It specializes in children's dresses and women's skirts.

For a number of years the company operated branches in Keyser and Ransom, W. Va.

Mr. Poland died in 1952. His son, John R. Poland Jr., who is now president of the company, was master of ceremonies at the anniversary dinner.

LaVale Sewage Plans Are Being Considered

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has taken under advisement the report on a sewage system for LaVale made by the consulting engineering firm of Whitman, Requaard and Associates, of Baltimore.

The engineering survey of the community was made following an order of the State Board of Health directing the commission to proceed with the installation of a sewage system.

The Baltimore engineers recommend two possibilities.

First is connecting with Cumberland's sewage treatment plant, and second, construction of a sewage treatment plant at the mouth of Braddock Run.

The estimated cost of an intercepting sewer along Braddock Run from Allegany Grove to Wills Creek, connecting sewers from existing systems to the interceptor, and a pumping station and force main to pump sewage to the Cumberland system is $716,000.

The cost of building a plant at the mouth of Braddock Run, together with the other necessary work, is estimated at $1,052,000.

The engineers recommended financing the program by means of a sewer service charge of about $60 per connection per year, (or $87 if federal and state aid is not available) and an increase of the ad valorem tax of about 20 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The third recommendation is the revision of the sanitary commission's enabling legislation to conform with the General Sanitary District Law of 1957 to provide a stronger basis for financing, constructing and operating facilities in LaVale.

Whitman, Requaard said this action should be sought as soon as the commission has officially accepted this engineering report and recommendations.

Last, the firm advised to undertake immediately negotiations with the city of Cumberland to resolve an equitable cost to LaVale for sharing the Cumberland interceptor and sewage treatment facilities.

"We recommend that a contract be obtained which will insure an equitable share in not only the present operating and amortizing cost, but also provide a cost participation schedule which will cover future expansion of the Cumberland treatment plant and construction of other necessary facilities to be used by LaVale."

The report pointed out that the engineers had studied the sewage problems of the LaVale Sanitary District and have recommended facilities which will provide adequate service for all of the Braddock Run drainage area.

Terminal facilities at the mouth of Braddock Run have been recommended in the light of present need.

The requirements of the communities of Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Corriganville and Ellerslie were also considered.

"These communities may develop more rapidly or more slowly than we have assumed, with the result that the timetable for improvements recommended may be changed but the facilities required should not be materially affected," the report added.

In making the survey, the State Board of Health told the commission that the above communities were to be considered in the overall plan.

It was pointed out that the sewage treatment plant of Cumberland was designed with the capacity of being able to take care of surrounding communities.

Right Of Way Needed For Road To Dump

The City of Cumberland and the property owners along the road leading to the city dump must provide a suitable base and a 40-foot right-of-way before the Board of Allegany County Commissioners will take the thoroughfare into the county roads system.

This was the remark made by Board President John J. Rowan at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners who received a request for work on the road from Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Mayor Keech's letter pointed out that for many years the city has requested the county to keep the road in usable condition.

The city, he said, is not asking the County Roads Department to do any work within the corporate limits, but merely wants to make the present road passable.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the road is used not only by the city garbage contractor, but by about 17 residents along it, plus other garbage contractors hauling to what is referred to as "Boch's Dump."

All of these residents pay county taxes, the mayor said, and he also emphasized that 50 per cent of county taxes come from the city.

Rowan answered Keech by stating that not one cent of county taxes goes to County Roads Department. All of it comes from the county's share of the state gasoline tax revenues and is based on a mileage method.

The county could not, Rowan pointed out, fix up the road so that it would be qualified for gas tax moneys, as the mayor had suggested.

Atkinson Named Officer Of Club

Patrick J. Atkinson was installed as administrative vice-president of Allegany Chapter, Toastmasters International, at the club's week, meeting at the Celanese cafeteria Thursday, to fill the office vacated by George Hollar who resigned.

Atkinson's first official duty was the installation of two new members of Allegany Chapter — Dr. Lawrence R. McKenzie and John E. Gideo.

Next week there will be a joint meeting of Allegany Chapter with the Keyser Toastmasters Club. Two speakers from each club will take part.

County, State Benefit From Sales Of Auto Tags

The total savings to the State of Maryland by handling auto license tags at the Allegany County Court House will be $12,447.69 this coming year, County Commissioner William A. Wilson reported yesterday.

Following his report, it was suggested that these figures be sent to the commissioner of motor vehicles and the state comptroller for their information.

Wilson pointed out that 22,600 tags were sold at the Court House this spring with a 15-cent service charge being placed on each. This revenue totaled $3,390.

The tax collector's expense in handling them,—payment for extra clerks—came to $2,197.

This brought a net profit to the county of $1,191.

However, Wilson declared, should the plates have been sent directly from Baltimore to each individual, as had been done prior to issuing the tags here, the parcel post rate at 27 cents each would have come to $6,102.

Under the new parcel post rates going into effect on February 1, 33 cents each, the cost of mailing would have been $7,453.

Deducting the charge from Baltimore to Cumberland for trucking, $432.50, from the new postal rate, means the state will be saving $7,025.50 this spring.

Wilson's report pointed out that the tax collector's expense total of $2,197, as listed above, did not include the salaries of the tax collector and assistant tax collector, which during the period of issuing tags would amount to $3,225.

Total labor and expense would cost the state a minimum of $5,422.19. This totaled with the $2,025.50 savings on the shipping costs will bring the total savings to the state of $12,447.69.

Blue Cross Official Hits Proposed Law

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state would have "virtually unlimited power" to control and operate Blue Cross under a proposed law, a spokesman for the hospital insurance program declared Friday.

Hilary W. Gans, chairman of the by-laws committee of the Blue Cross board, criticized a measure endorsed by the Legislative Council which will go before the full General Assembly in February.

One provision would reduce the governing board in size from 21 to 15 and requires that eight would be state appointees.

Said Gans: "I cannot conceive that Blue Cross subscribers, additionally, would want the policy making body of the plan to be composed largely of persons who receive their appointments from any governmental or political office."

"The dangers inherent in such an arrangement are obvious."

Gans said it could mean the end of Blue Cross as a voluntary, non-governmental program.

The Blue Cross spokesman also belittled the proposal to reduce the size of the board. Instead, he added, it should be enlarged because of the present size and complexity of the program.

Blue Cross operations were investigated last summer by a Legislative Council committee headed by Sen. John-Clarence North (D-Talbot).

The probe came after the State Insurance Commission approved a second sizable increase in premium rates within one year. A year ago the hike was 14 per cent and this fall, 20 per cent.

Opponents of the rate hike said Blue Cross and member hospitals were wasteful in some of their operations. Keeping patients in the hospital longer than necessary and condoning payment of some non-applicable treatment were two of the complaints.

Gans' statement Friday took issue with other parts of the North committee's report. Among them was the contention by the committee that Blue Cross was not exerting sufficient leadership in promoting efficiency and economy in hospital operations.

"Blue Cross has done and is doing a tremendous amount of work in this area," Gans said. "Both in our dealings with individual hospitals and through the hospital Council and special committees, we are actively exploring and promoting ways in which the efficiency and economy of hospital operations can be increased."

Sen. See said the six delegates and he wish to review the enabling act passed in the 1959 General Assembly that authorized the county commissioners to float a $100,000 bond issue to surface playgrounds at a number of county schools.

So far, he said, nothing has been done about this particular piece of legislation.

However, the Board of Education has under the mandatory bill passed in the same session, blacktopped the Beall Elementary School playground.

There will be a representative from the Flintstone section there to discuss the possibility of the Board of Education including commercial subjects at Flintstone High School.

Only diplomas in the vocational and general courses are offered at this time.

Past Month Proves Good For Building

$182,875 Estimated For 34 Permits

Despite the approach of winter and the general slackening of construction activity, November proved a good month for building permits as 34 were issued by the Allegheny County assessment department for work estimated by the builders to cost a total of $182,875.

These totals brought the 11-month figures for 1959 to 387 permits for construction which the usually conservative builders estimate will cost a total of $2,536,260.

Both November totals were better than for the corresponding month a year ago when 29 permits were issued for work estimated at $138,800. Last year there also were 387 permits in the first 11 months but the total was $4,214,734. More than half of the 1958 total resulted from the single permit for a $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as well as the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

The total estimated cost of November construction was higher than all but four 1959 months. They are the spring and summer months of March, April, June and August, when building is usually at its peak.

Work in 16 different election districts was authorized by the 34 November permits. The leader was District 29 in LaVale, with seven permits, followed closely by District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings, with six, and District 31, McCoole, with four permits. Only other districts with more than one November permit were District 21, Gross, with three, and Districts 6, West Side suburban, and 30, Zihlman, each with two.

There were single November permits for Districts 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 5, North End suburban; 8, Westernport suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 16, North Branch; 20, Corrigansville - Eilerslie; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 27, Gilmore.

Twenty of the 34 November permits were for the construction of new dwellings. Four each were for additions to dwellings and garages. There also were two for storages and one each for a cow barn, hunting lodge, storeroom and office and skating lodge.

Accident Victim Is Unconscious

A former Cresaptown man, injured in an auto accident on November 24 has remained unconscious since that time and yesterday was removed to a Boston hospital for further examination.

He is Keith Robertson, 23, son of Mrs. Ruth Case and grandson of Orphans Court Judge and Mrs. J. French VanMeter, Cresaptown. Judge VanMeter said his grandson was injured seriously when the car he was driving skidded into a tree on the night of November 24.

He had been stationed at a Nike base at Danvers, Mass. He was removed this week from a Danvers hospital to Cable Memorial Hospital, Boston.

He became conscious only briefly for one short period since the accident.

Two Miners Killed Near Shinnston

SHINNSTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Two men were killed early Friday in a roof fall at the Mountaineer Coal Co.'s large Williams mine near the Harrison - Marion County mine.

Authorities said Jennings S. Lane, 55, Wyatt Harrison County, and Vincenzo Cavallaro, 62, Monongah, were helping install steel support beams when the fall occurred. Cavallaro had been employed at the mine since 1932.

The mine employs 285 men and produces 5,000 tons of coal daily.

Deviations will be led by Sandy Willets of the Beall Tri-Hi-Y and group singing will be led by Nancy Whitworth of Bruce Tri-Hi-Y.

Eric Fable, Allegheny Hi-Y, will preside over the meeting, the topic of which will be the Youth Conference the weekend of December 12 and 13 at Newark, Del. Final plans will be made. World Service also will be discussed at the meeting, she said.

Firm Founded By Native Of County Cited

The Perfection Garment Company, founded by a former Allegheny County man, was saluted Wednesday night by the Martinsburg Chamber of Commerce on the 55th anniversary of its operation.

The company was founded in 1905 by John R. Poland Sr., who worked in coal mines at Elk Garden and a store in Burlington, W. Va., before starting the business in Martinsburg in 1905.

Mr. Poland was born in 1873 at Black Oak Bottom, a son of the late Guinn and Ann Vizella Holt Poland.

He had one sewing machine and one operator when he started the firm with borrowed money and went out and sold orders.

The company now employs 500 and its sales amount to more than a million dollars a year. It specializes in children's dresses and women's skirts.

For a number of years the company operated branches in Keyser and Ransom, W. Va.

Mr. Poland died in 1952. His son, John R. Poland Jr., who is now president of the company, was master of ceremonies at the anniversary dinner.

LaVale Sewage Plans Are Being Considered

The LaVale Sanitary Commission has taken under advisement the report on a sewage system for LaVale made by the consulting engineering firm of Whitman, Requaert and Associates, of Baltimore.

The engineering survey of the community was made following an order of the State Board of Health directing the commission to proceed with the installation of a sewage system.

The Baltimore engineers recommended two possibilities.

First is connecting with Cumberland's sewage treatment plant, and second, construction of a sewage treatment plant at the mouth of Braddock Run.

The estimated cost of an intercepting sewer along Braddock Run from Allegheny Grove to Wills Creek, connecting sewers from existing systems to the intercepter, and a pumping station and force main to pump sewage to the Cumberland system is $716,000.

The cost of building a plant at the mouth of Braddock Run, together with the other necessary work, is estimated at $1,052,000.

The engineers recommended financing the program by means of a sewer service charge of about $60 per connection per year (or $87 if federal and state aid is not available) and an increase of the ad valorem tax of about 20 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The third recommendation is the revision of the sanitary commission's enabling legislation to conform with the General Sanitary District Law of 1957 to provide a stronger basis for financing, constructing and operating facilities in LaVale.

Whitman, Requaert said this action should be sought as soon as the commission has officially accepted this engineering report and recommendations.

Last, the firm advised to undertake immediately negotiations with the city of Cumberland to resolve an equitable cost to LaVale for sharing the Cumberland intercepter and sewage treatment facilities.

"We recommend that a contract be obtained which will insure an equitable share in not only the present operating and amortizing cost, but also provide a cost participation schedule which will cover future expansion of the Cumberland treatment plant and construction of other necessary facilities to be used by LaVale."

The report pointed out that the engineers had studied the sewerage problems of the LaVale Sanitary District and have recommended facilities which will provide adequate service for all of the Braddock Run drainage area.

Terminal facilities at the mouth of Braddock Run have been recommended in the light of present need.

The requirements of the communities of Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Corrigansville and Eilerslie were also considered.

"These communities may develop more rapidly or more slowly than we have assumed, with the result that the timetable for improvements recommended may be changed but the facilities required should not be materially affected," the report added.

In making the survey, the State Board of Health told the commission that the above communities were to be considered in the overall plan.

It was pointed out that the sewage treatment plant of Cumberland was designed with the capacity of being able to take care of surrounding communities.

This was the remark made by Board President John J. Rowan at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners who received a request for work on the road from Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Mayor Keech's letter pointed out that for many years the city has requested the county to keep the road in usable condition.

The city, he said, is not asking the County Roads Department to do any work within the corporate limits, but merely wants to make the present road passable.

Mayor Keech pointed out that the road is used not only by the city garbage contractor, but by about 17 residents along it, plus other garbage contractors hauling to what is referred to as "Boch's Dump."

All of these residents pay county taxes, the mayor said, and he also emphasized that 50 per cent of county taxes come from the city.

Rowan answered Keech by stating that not one cent of county taxes goes to County Roads Department. All of it comes from the county's share of the state gasoline tax revenues and is based on a mileage method.

The county could not, Rowan, pointed out, fix up the road so that it would be qualified for gas tax moneys, as the mayor had suggested.

County, State Benefit From Sales Of Auto Tags

The total savings to the State of Maryland by handling auto license tags at the Allegheny County Court House will be $12,447.69 this coming year, County Commissioner William A. Wilson reported yesterday.

Following his report, it was suggested that these figures be sent to the commissioner of motor vehicles and the state comptroller for their information.

Wilson pointed out that 22,600 tags were sold at the Court House this spring with a 15-cent service charge being placed on each. This revenue totaled $3,390.

The tax collector's expense in handling them,—payment for extra clerks—came to $2,197.

This brought a net profit to the county of $1,191.

However, Wilson declared, should the plates have been sent directly from Baltimore to each individual, as had been done prior to issuing the tags here, the parcel post rate at 27 cents each would have come to $6,102.

Under the new parcel post rates going into effect on February 1, 33 cents each, the cost of mailing would have been $7,458.

Deducting the charge from Baltimore to Cumberland for trucking, $432.50, from the new postal rate, means the state will be saving $7,025.50 this spring.

Right Of Way Needed For Road To Dump

The City of Cumberland and the property owners along the road leading to the city dump must provide a suitable base and a 40-foot right-of-way before the Board of Allegheny County Commissioners will take the thoroughfare into the county roads system.

This was the remark made by Board President John J. Rowan at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners who received a request for work on the road from Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Mayor Keech's letter pointed out that for many years the city has requested the county to keep the road in usable condition.

A Fundamental Rule Remembered

Americans are so accustomed to a free-and-easy interpretation of economics, in a long era of lush natural resources, booming development and indulgent attitude toward labor, that they may not realize what is going on in other countries, where the battle for markets is tough and nothing is overlooked.

Japan is the outstanding example of a national economy fighting with bare knuckles for foreign trade. Its wage scales are so far below those of the U. S. that they seem almost grotesque.

Sweden has higher wage scales than Japan. But a strange phenomenon has happened there recently—a voluntary acceptance of a wage cut, to be put into effect so that Swedish manufactured goods can compete with those of other nations.

This seems like rough medicine for labor to take, but in the long run it will prove to be smart business and ultimately a better deal for workers.

As pointed out by the publication Christian Economics, "We would all be more prosperous if increasing efficiency resulted in lower prices rather than higher wages." It concludes: "The Swedes have taken one step toward the sounder policy that has done so much for the Western world."

Ruefully it has to be admitted that the "sounder policy" has been latterly nullified by a delusion that prosperity can be built upon higher and higher prices for things people have to buy.

There was a time, soon after the turn of the century, when the Ford concept of low prices (miraculously accompanied by voluntary granting of higher wages by management) depending upon huge production, assembly lines, etc., promised a revolutionary new era for American industry. That is what Christian Economics had in mind.

It ought to be hammered home, day after day, that the soundest prosperity—shared by everybody—must come through lower prices, not through ruinous, runaway inflation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Hemingway On Yankees

According to "Newsweek," Ernest Hemingway, supporting Castro, said:

"Because I consider myself another Cuban . . . I don't want to be considered a Yankee."

Of course, it is each man to his taste and Hemingway has a right to his taste and to his refuge which is in the United States not in Cuba.

Ernest Hemingway was born in Oak Park, Illinois, which raises the question as to whether he is a Yankee at all. Properly a Yankee is a New Englander and while it is true that during the Civil War, the Southerners referred to the Northerners as Yankees, and while it is also true that Hemingway's compatriots in Cuba refer to us as Yanquis, prior to the American Revolutionary War, only New Englanders were called Yankees. It was, of course, applied contemptuously by the British and now similarly so by the Cubans. If Hemingway uses the term Yankee as Castro does, he must include the vinegar of contempt for the country of his birth.

Since the Revolutionary War, the word Yankee has become respectable in the United States. In fact, it has reached the nobility of snobishness, implying an old and pure English descent as compared to more recent, immigrant descent. I do not know who were Hemingway's ancestors and whether he deserves the honorable appellation of Yankee; perhaps he does not like it because his Cuban friends spell it Yanqui.

It is a curiosity of American life that when an American lives abroad, almost anywhere, he is likely to become so much a part of the other country as to be alien to his own. John Reed was a reporter for the "New York World" at one time; he also worked on the "Masses" and the "Metropolitan" magazine. A Harvard man of considerable culture and personality, he went to Russia during the first years of the Revolution. I saw quite a lot of him in Petrograd in 1917-18. His book "Ten Days that Shook the World," extolled the Bolsheviks.

The Baku Congress of Peoples of the East took place in 1920. It was the first effort of the Russians to win the peoples of Asia to their cause and out of this Congress grew the Communist Party of China. There was only one anti-American speech at that Congress. It was delivered by the only publicized American at the Congress, John Reed, who attacked the United States for its policy in the Philippines, Central America and the Caribbean. He warned the delegates . . . the peoples of the East, the peoples of Asia, had not yet experienced the power of America." It was not a boast; it was a warning.

Some missionaries become so completely absorbed by the work they are doing that they become more native than the natives themselves. This usually is proof of their sincerity and their total devotion to their work, but its fault is that sometimes association with the life of another people results in a negative attitude toward one's own country. Of course, all Americans descend from those who, having abandoned the lands of their origin, became devoted to the country which welcomed them. Naturalization is not regarded as an improper practice.

Agnes Smedley was an American and probably had much Indian in her ancestry but she grew to dislike her own country very much. She settled for a while in Germany and then in China. She became an active Communist and was closely associated with General Chu Teh in the development of the Communist Revolution in China. In fact, she was as much a part of that revolution as any Chinese. Agnes Smedley belonged to no country; she was a servant of the revolution and her devotion was to the revolution—the constant, unending revolution, the clash for power, the hatred of one people for another; the hatred of one class for another. She was as ardent and fanatical a Communist as I had ever met anywhere, including Russia.

Why she hated the United States so violently I never knew, except that she hated her father. It was a quirk of character. When the full story is written about why the men who settled in Yenan and eventually conquered the whole of China hated the United States as no Chinese should have, considering a century of American benefaction, the role of Agnes Smedley will loom as very significant.

How Can Birth Control Be A Political Issue?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON —There's something incredible about the current effort of some groups to make birth control a political issue in America. If voters were to be asked to express their preference for a candidate on the basis of whether he is for or against birth control, it would cut through all blocs and parties, irrespective of religious or party affiliations. The issue wouldn't be whether a couple of people have the right to have as many children as they please but what right the government has to tell them how to conduct their family affairs. President Eisenhower has just said:

"I cannot imagine anything more emphatically a subject that is not a proper political or governmental activity or function or responsibility.

"This thing has, for very great denominations, a religious meaning, definite religious tenet in their own doctrine. I have no quarrel with them, as a matter of fact this being largely the Catholic Church, they are one of the groups that I admire and respect, but this has nothing to do with governmental contact with other governments. We do not intend to interfere with any other the internal affairs of any other government, and if they want to do something which admittedly—to do something about what is admittedly a very difficult question, and almost an explosive question, that is their business. And, if they want to go to someone for help, they should go, they will go unquestionably to professional groups, not to governments. This government has no, and will not as long as I am here, have a positive political doctrine in its program that has to do with this problem of birth control. That's not our business."

Any candidate who said he favored governmental action to control the number of children Americans could have would find himself losing votes right and left. The mere assertion of such a policy by any candidate would insure his defeat.

But, it is argued, the question really relates to other countries, like India and China, where population is growing to astronomic proportions. Is it really believed that any candidate for political office is going to win or lose votes on the issue of how many children the people of India should be permitted to have? To state the question is to reveal its absurdity.

While the problem of overpopulation is a serious one, it isn't going to be solved during the lifetime of anyone in American politics today.

Just two weeks ago Sir Charles Darwin, grandson of the world-famous author of "Origin of Species" and himself an eminent scientist and specialist on population problems, made some startling statements in a copyrighted interview in "U.S. News & World Report." The exchange ran as follows:

"Q. How widely would birth control have to be practiced?"

"A. To be any good, it's got to be world-wide. If you just have it in this country, what's the result? Most of the world in 50 years will be black. Or more likely yellow . . . but you've got to have an educational system. You've got to teach a billion—at least a billion—grown-up people how to use it. Well, how many men can a man educate? A thousand, something of that kind. You've got to have over a million teachers just to show people how to use this. You can't get that going in 50 years. So it's out.

"Q. Do you mean that it would take a billion people practicing birth control to stabilize the world population?"

"A. You've got to arrange it so that everybody doesn't have, on the average, more than 2.7—I think it is—children . . .

MORE ISSUES — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's high-priced effort to find issues which differentiate him from Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his rival for the GOP Presidential nomination, has led him to hit pay dirt on an economic argument.

Rockefeller, in a speech before a large group of economists and business leaders, proposed that the nation not reduce its 40-hour week for the next 10 years in order to accelerate its economic growth and keep ahead of Russia.

Rockefeller's plan was well thought out, and well received. There was general agreement that it would help provide needed capital for business expansion while at the same time increase prosperity and thus reduce the relative burden of taxes.

What was not mentioned was the fact that Nixon, during the 1956 campaign, was widely quoted on his long-range promise that Republican-led prosperity would bring about a four-day week. Nixon's thesis in those pre-sputnik days was that the nation's workers would benefit directly by a shorter work week, more leisure and the money to enjoy it, if they voted Republican.

Ingenuity Can Help Victim Of Parkinsonism

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Two thirds of all victims of parkinsonism are over 60. The majority have marked tremor of the hands and head, lack coordination, and move slowly and deliberately. They lean forward and take short steps when walking. The arms are kept at the side due to loss of swing.

Various medicines are available to lessen the handicap but the majority of afflicted persons need help at home in order to get about safely and avoid accidents. This aspect is seldom considered yet it is important for more comfortable living. Many of these suggestions apply to any household where older men and women live.

The least expensive change is to eliminate scatter rugs and slippery floor surfaces. Even a gentle fall caused by slipping on a rug or tripping over a doorstep may break the hip and the ensuing fracture may be a catastrophe to these people.

There are dozens of other tricks to maintain balance and prevent falls. A wooden or metal handle fastened to the wall opposite a door knob will enable an unsteady individual to support himself while opening the door. Those living on one floor are fortunate because they do not contend with stairs. Stairways should be protected with balustrades or supports on the wall unless the family can afford an electric elevator.

It is difficult to eat when the hands tremble. Many solve the problem by not eating and this and not the disease is responsible for weight loss. It is embarrassing to spill food and these sufferers eat so slowly they quit before s satisfied. They should be encouraged to finish everything. If need be, get an electrically heated tray to keep the food warm.

There are books on hints for physically disabled persons that make life more tolerable. It is the little things that help the most. Objects in daily use should be placed within reach and there are numerous ways to make dressing and undressing easier. A little ingenuity at home may offer more practical assistance to the victim of parkinsonism than all the drugs in the pharmacy. Moreover, there is no substitute for kindness and understanding when this situation exists.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on parkinsonism if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

"My dear fellow," blustered the actor, "do you think you're the ONLY doctor I consult?"

Vatican Will Seek To Discourage Ike's Efforts To Thaw Cold War

By Drew Pearson

EN ROUTE—No place on his historic trip has President Eisenhower come up more emphatically against discouragement of his hope to thaw the cold war than at the Vatican.

Obviously the Holy Father and the President did not, could not discuss political matters. It's not done. The closest to this took place when Premier Caramanlis of Greece was in Rome and asking the Pope what he would do if Nikita Khrushchev requested an audience with him. The Pope replied: "Don't ask me."

Hard Line On Moscow

In fact, the most important development in Rome today has been the unofficial but very pointed criticism by Vatican officials of Italian President Gronchi for announcing plans to go to Moscow to see Premier Khrushchev. And though it will not be discussed, obviously the Pope's reaction to the exchange of visits between Eisenhower and Khrushchev must be similar.

In the United States the College of Bishops has already spoken out firmly against the so-called "thaw" with Russia. This together with the Vatican's firm opposition sharpens the division which will meet the President almost everywhere he goes on this trip.

The division became so sharp in Italy, and Vatican criticism of President Gronchi so vigorous that the Italian President retaliated. At a press conference he dropped the hint that treaties, concordats and other agreements made by man were always subject to revision. Rome newspapers flared with interpretations that this meant the favorable concordat given the Vatican by Mussolini in return for Catholic support for him, might be revised. Unquestionably this interpretation was correct.

Thus a new type of cold war has developed between the Vatican and the President of Italy. Gronchi is in a strong position. As a Catholic he helped, in 1902, to found the first Christian Democrat Party which has always supported the church and been supported by it in turn. No one can challenge his strong Catholicism.

But on the question of thawing the cold war and relaxing relations with Moscow the battle lines are sharply drawn between the leaders of the Catholic Church and this Catholic Actionist who has become President of Italy.

Moving Ceremony

The voice of Pope John XXIII carried clear and resonant to everyone gathered in the Sistine Chapel. It was a kindly voice and it seemed to carry overtones of great sympathy, great sorrow, great understanding.

The Pope was officiating at a high mass in memory of Cardinal Stritch of Chicago, Cardinal Mooney of Detroit and other Cardinals who died within the year. Below him sat other Cardinals, most of them Italian; and beyond them were the uniformed ambassadors of the diplomatic corps, the Knights of Malta who showed us to our places, and the Swiss Guards in their uniforms of striped purple and gold carrying halberds that dated back to knights of old.

It was a moving ceremony in a brilliant setting. Directly overhead on the high ceiling of the chapel was the painting of the serpent and the first temptation that came to the Garden of Eden. Almost directly below sat the Pope.

Easily the most striking sight in all that magnificent ceremony and the most striking sound in that beautiful ritual were the face and voice of the Pope.

Pope John has been called the "jolly Pope." His face and voice belied that description. He looked shy and sad and concerned with the problems of the world. A "Rebellious" Pope

Pope John has spent a good part of his life rebelling against formality, beginning as Apostolic Delegate in Istanbul during the war when he worked with the Joint Jewish Committee to get 15,000 Jews out of Nazi-occupied Roumania. They could leave as Christians, but not as Jews. So overnight the Pope, then Archbishop Roncalli, made them Catholics. As such they were evacuated from Roumania.

When he became Pope, John continued that rebellion. He drank a cup of tea with the Swiss Guards, visited the prisoners of Rome at Christmas time, explained that one of "my relatives who was hunting without a license was sent to jail for a month," doubled the salaries of low-paid Vatican employes, inspected every nook and corner of the Vatican, ordered wine for all workers in the Vatican carpentry shop, and called a Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to try to unite Christianity under one church.

However, there is one point on which Pope John has not deviated from the strict line laid down by his predecessor, Pius XII. There is to be no compromise with the Communist world.

Mussolini's Mistress In Rome's Ambassador Hotel in the evening you will sometimes see a gray-haired lady eating dinner. Always she dines alone. Everyone knows her, but no effort is made to sit with her.

She is Margurita Sarfatti, first mistress of Mussolini.

Meeting Mussolini when he was a young socialist in Geneva she guided him, taught him almost all he ever knew. She made him dictator of Italy.

Then as Mussolini edged closer to Hitler and war seemed inevitable Sarfatti bowed out. When he died, Mussolini had another mistress, young and beautiful, who was hanged with him. Mussolini's wife had not been with him for a long time.

Margurita Sarfatti comes from a good Roman family, has a little money, sold some paintings to get more, and is quietly living out her remaining years in the Ambassador Hotel. I couldn't help wonder what thoughts she has of the tragic years she shaped as she sits in the dining room eating alone.

On-Again-Off-Again

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — In the "clarifying" statement of A.M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, on his intentions as to a proxy fight for control of Alleghany Corp., further clarification is needed.

Actually his "clarifying" statement "clarifies" nothing, unless his original announcement of a proxy fight was a bluff and he never had a group and he and "associates" never had 700,000 Alleghany shares.

On November 16, Mr. Sonnabend proclaimed:

"As a result of a group of associates and myself having acquired over 700,000 shares of Alleghany Corp. common stock . . . Now as a result of prodding from the SEC, he says:

"The informal 'group' to which reference has been made in the press does not represent any group in any way committed to support me."

In his latest statement on his "on-again-off-again" proxy fight Mr. Sonnabend adds:

"It did consist of a group of people who had communicated with me directly or indirectly, expressing their interest in the Alleghany Corp.

"They were and are free at any time to purchase or sell stock. In fact some may already have sold and others of my friends or acquaintances may have additional purchases."

All of which adds up to nothing — except more confusion. Mr. Sonnabend first talked of a group of associates buying 700,000 shares and now he says there is no such thing as a group, but in the same breath admits a group did communicate with him directly or indirectly — whatever that means — about Alleghany.

The questions still to be answered are:

Who bought stock along with Mr. Sonnabend, and how much? And at what price?

Have they sold and if so when and at what price?

How much stock does Mr. Sonnabend have? When did he buy it? Has he sold any?

How come the purchases were made around the same time if they were not acting in concert as a group to raid Alleghany Corp.?

The SEC has an obligation to the investing public to get these answers. Also, to require immediate reports from Mr. Sonnabend and any of the others when they do sell.

As to the proxy fight, Mr. Sonnabend on November 16 said:

"I feel I have no alternative but to seek to elect a new board of directors. . . . The prospect of having to engage in a proxy contest with Mr. (Allan P.) Kirby (head of Alleghany) for control of Alleghany does not appeal to me. It will be the first such contest for me, much to my regret. I had no idea of the chain of events that would transpire when I became an investor in the corporation. However, I feel Mr. Kirby has left me no choice." (O.K., he's gonna fight.)

Now, Mr. Sonnabend-says in a statement which he submitted first to the SEC:

"It was not and is not now my intention to start a proxy solicitation for control of Alleghany Corp." (He isn't gonna fight.)

At a press conference following the issuance of that statement, Mr. Sonnabend said on the same subject:

"My intentions can change at any time." (Maybe now he will fight.)

So he's on-again-off-again Sonnabend.

As to his holdings in Alleghany —the amount and his future purchases and sales—Mr. Sonnabend says that is a "personal" matter. He takes the same view as to the holdings of his "informal" group.

In effect, Mr. Sonnabend is telling the SEC and the public, particularly those with an investment in Alleghany, to lump it and like it.

This is open defiance of the SEC regulations and rules covering proxy fights. There also is the matter of SEC rules covering reports by 10 per cent or larger shareholders — unless Mr. Sonnabend and his group never did have the 700,000 shares — 13 per cent — he claimed in his first statement.

This is a scandalous situation, topped only by the statements to the press issued by a spokesman for Louis E. Wolfson last year that he was a "quarter of the way home" in selling out his 430,000 share investment in American Motors. Wolfson at the time of that statement had in fact liquidated all his holdings and was short around 170,000 shares.

Mr. Wolfson and his spokesman got a mild slap on the wrist for this. Mr. Wolfson made the colossal blunder of selling American Motors short around $11. It recently sold close to $100.

A Fundamental Rule Remembered

Americans are so accustomed to a free-and-easy interpretation of economics, in a long era of lush natural resources, booming development and indulgent attitude toward labor, that they may not realize what is going on in other countries, where the battle for markets is tough and nothing is overlooked.

Japan is the outstanding example of a national economy fighting with bare knuckles for foreign trade. Its wage scales are so far below those of the U. S. that they seem almost grotesque.

Sweden has higher wage scales than Japan. But a strange phenomenon has happened there recently—a voluntary acceptance of a wage cut, to be put into effect so that Swedish manufactured goods can compete with those of other nations.

This seems like rough medicine for labor to take, but in the long run it will prove to be smart business and ultimately a better deal for workers.

As pointed out by the publication Christian Economics, "We would all be more prosperous if increasing efficiency resulted in lower prices rather than higher wages." It concludes: "The Swedes have taken one step toward the sounder policy that has done so much for the Western world."

Recklessly it has to be admitted that the "sounder policy" has been latterly nullified by a delusion that prosperity can be built upon higher and higher prices for things people have to buy.

There was a time, soon after the turn of the century, when the Ford concept of low prices (miraculously accompanied by voluntary granting of higher wages by management) depending upon huge production, assembly lines, etc., promised a revolutionary new era for American industry. That is what Christian Economics had in mind.

It ought to be hammered home, day after day, that the soundest prosperity—shared by everybody—must come through lower prices, not through ruinous, runaway inflation.

These Days

Hemingway On Yankees

According to "Newsweek," Ernest Hemingway, supporting Castro, said:

"Because I consider myself another Cuban . . . I don't want to be considered a Yankee."

Of course, it is each man to his taste and Hemingway has a right to his taste and to his refuge which is in the United States not in Cuba.

Ernest Hemingway was born in Oak Park, Illinois, which raises the question as to whether he is a Yankee at all. Properly a Yankee is a New Englander and while it is true that during the Civil War, the Southerners referred to the Northerners as Yankees, and while it is also true that Hemingway's compatriots in Cuba refer to us as Yanquis, prior to the American Revolutionary War, only New Englanders were called Yankees. It was, of course, applied contemptuously by the British and now similarly so by the Cubans. If Hemingway uses the term Yankee as Castro does, he must include the vinegar of contempt for the country of his birth.

Since the Revolutionary War, the word Yankee has become respectable in the United States. In fact, it has reached the nobility of snobishness, implying an old and pure English descent as compared to more recent, immigrant descent. I do not know who were Hemingway's ancestors and whether he deserves the honorable appellation of Yankee; perhaps he does not like it because his Cuban friends spell it Yanqui.

It is a curiosity of American life that when an American lives abroad, almost anywhere, he is likely to become so much a part of the other country as to be alien to his own. John Reed was a reporter for the "New York World" at one time; he also worked on the "Masses" and the "Metropolitan" magazine. A Harvard man of considerable culture and personality, he went to Russia during the first years of the Revolution. I saw quite a lot of him in Petrograd in 1917-18. His book "Ten Days that Shook the World," extolled the Bolsheviks.

The Baku Congress of Peoples of the East took place in 1920. It was the first effort of the Russians to win the peoples of Asia to their cause and out of this Congress grew the Communist Party of China. There was only one anti-American speech at that Congress. It was delivered by the only publicized American at the Congress, John Reed, who attacked the United States for its policy in the Philippines, Central America and the Caribbean. He warned the delegates ". . . the peoples of the East, the peoples of Asia, had not yet experienced the power of America." It was not a boast; it was a warning.

Some missionaries become so completely absorbed by the work they are doing that they become more native than the natives themselves. This usually is proof of their sincerity and their total devotion to their work, but its fault is that sometimes association with the life of another people results in a negative attitude toward one's own country. Of course, all Americans descend from those who, having abandoned the lands of their origin, became devoted to the country which welcomed them. Naturalization is not regarded as an improper practice.

Agnes Smedley was an American and probably had much Indian in her ancestry but she grew to dislike her own country very much. She settled for a while in Germany and then in China. She became an active Communist and was closely associated with General Chu Teh in the development of the Communist Revolution in China. In fact, she was as much a part of that revolution as any Chinese. Agnes Smedley belonged to no country; she was a servant of the revolution and her devotion was to the revolution—the constant, unending revolution, the clash for power, the hatred of one people for another; the hatred of one class for another. She was as ardent and fanatical a Communist as I had ever met anywhere, including Russia.

Why she hated the United States so violently I never knew, except that she hated her father. It was a quirk of character. When the full story is written about why the men who settled in Yenan and eventually conquered the whole of China hated the United States as no Chinese should have, considering a century of American beneficence, the role of Agnes Smedley will loom as very significant.

Try And Stop Me

A big Broadway star had been fighting a losing battle with the Demon Rum for years, was finally warned by his doctor that if he didn't climb on the wagon he'd be a gone goose in six months. "I know you can't stop completely in one day," added the doctor, "so I'll let you take four ounces of whisky a day — no more and no less — for three weeks as a tapering-off process."

At the end of the three weeks, the star staggered into the doctor's office fried to the gills. "You disobeyed my instructions!" exclaimed the doctor angrily. "Honest I didn't," contradicted the lush. "Just four ounces of whisky each day — no more or less."

"Then how," demanded the doctor, "did you get so intoxicated on so little whisky?"

They could leave as Christians, but not as Jews. So overnight the Pope, then Archbishop Roncalli, made them Catholics. As such they were evacuated from Roumania.

When he became Pope, John continued that rebellion. He drank a cup of tea with the Swiss Guards, visited the prisoners of Rome at Christmas time, explained that one of "my relatives" who was hunting without a license was sent to jail for a month, doubled the salaries of low-paid Vatican employees, inspected every nook and corner of the Vatican, ordered wine for all workers in the Vatican carpentry shop, and called a Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council to try to unite Christianity under one church.

However, there is one point on which Pope John has not deviated from the strict line laid down by his predecessor, Pius XII. There is to be no compromise with the Communist world.

Mussolini's Mistress

In Rome's Ambassador Hotel in the evening you will sometimes see a gray-haired lady eating dinner. Always she dines alone. Everyone knows her, but no effort is made to sit with her.

She is Margherita Sarfatti, first mistress of Mussolini.

Meeting Mussolini when he was a young socialist in Geneva she guided him, taught him almost all he ever knew. She made him dictator of Italy.

Then as Mussolini edged closer to Hitler and war seemed inevitable Sarfatti bowed out. When he died, Mussolini had another mistress, young and beautiful, who was hanged with him. Mussolini's wife had not been with him for a long time.

Margherita Sarfatti comes from a good Roman family, has a little money, sold some paintings to get more, and is quietly living out her remaining years in the Ambassador Hotel. I couldn't help wonder what thoughts she has of the tragic years she shaped as she sits in the dining room eating alone.

On-Again-Off-Again

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — In the "clarifying" statement of A.M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, on his intentions as to a proxy fight for control of Alleghany Corp., further clarification is needed.

Actually his "clarifying" statement "clarifies" nothing, unless his original announcement of a proxy fight was a bluff and he never had a group and he and "associates" never had 700,000 Alleghany shares.

On November 16, Mr. Sonnabend proclaimed: "As a result of a group of associates and myself having acquired over 700,000 shares of Alleghany Corp. common stock . . ."

Now as a result of prodding from the SEC, he says:

"The informal 'group' to which reference has been made in the press does not represent any group in any way committed to support me."

In his latest statement on his "on-again-off-again" proxy fight Mr. Sonnabend adds:

"It did consist of a group of people who had communicated with me directly or indirectly, expressing their interest in the Alleghany Corp."

"They were and are free at any time to purchase or sell stock. In fact some may already have sold and others of my friends or acquaintances may have additional purchases."

All of which adds up to nothing — except more confusion. Mr. Sonnabend first talked of a group of associates buying 700,000 shares and now he says there is no such thing as a group, but in the same breath admits a group did communicate with him directly or indirectly — whatever that means — about Alleghany.

The questions still to be answered are:

Who bought stock along with Mr. Sonnabend, and how much? And at what price?

Have they sold and if so when and at what price?

How much stock does Mr. Sonnabend have? When did he buy it? Has he sold any?

How come the purchases were made around the same time if they were not acting in concert as a group to raid Alleghany Corp.?

The SEC has an obligation to the investing public to get these answers. Also, to require immediate reports from Mr. Sonnabend and any of the others when they do sell.

As to the proxy fight, Mr. Sonnabend on November 16 said:

"I feel I have no alternative but to seek to elect a new board of directors. . . . The prospect of having to engage in a proxy contest with Mr. (Allan P.) Kirby (head of Alleghany) for control of Alleghany does not appeal to me. It will be the first such contest for me, much to my regret. I had no idea of the chain of events that would transpire when I became an investor in the corporation. However, I feel Mr. Kirby has left me no choice." (O.K., he's gonna fight.)

Now, Mr. Sonnabend says in a statement which he submitted first to the SEC:

"It was not and is not now my intention to start a proxy solicitation for control of Alleghany Corp." (He isn't gonna fight.)

At a press conference following the issuance of that statement, Mr. Sonnabend said on the same subject:

"My intentions can change at any time." (Maybe now he will fight.)

So he's on-again-off-again Sonnabend.

As to his holdings in Alleghany — the amount and his future purchases and sales—Mr. Sonnabend says that is a "personal" matter. He takes the same view as to the holdings of his "informal" group.

In effect, Mr. Sonnabend is telling the SEC and the public, particularly those with an investment in Alleghany, to lump it and like it.

This is open defiance of the SEC regulations and rules covering proxy fights. There also is the matter of SEC rules covering reports by 10 per cent or larger shareholders — unless Mr. Sonnabend and his group never did have the 700,000 shares — 13 per cent — he claimed in his first statement.

This is a scandalous situation, topped only by the statements to the press issued by a spokesman for Louis E. Wolfson last year that he was a "quarter of the way home" in selling out his 430,000 share investment in American Motors. Wolfson at the time of that statement had in fact liquidated all his holdings and was short around 170,000 shares.

Mr. Wolfson and his spokesman got a mild slap on the wrist for this. Mr. Wolfson made the colossal blunder of selling American Motors short around $100. It recently sold close to $100.

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Champion Gene Fullmer pounded challenger Spider Webb with a devastating body attack Friday night as he retained his NBA middleweight crown on a unanimous decision after 15 grueling rounds.

A full-house of 7,100 in Utah State University fieldhouse and a national television audience saw the 159½-pound Fullmer, from West Jordan, Utah, successfully defend the title he won from Carmen Basilio in San Francisco last Aug. 28.

The 157½-pound Webb, from Chicago and a former student at Idaho State College, made the champion appear awkward at times. But the equalizer for that came with the solid right hand belts to the body. Fullmer also managed to block many of the challenger's best shots.

Decision Unanimous
The three officials, all from Utah, scored under the 10-round must system and all had Fullmer far ahead.

Referee Ken Shulsen, from the champion's home town, scored it 147-141. Judge Boyd Mattison had it 150-132 with Fullmer not losing a round. Judge Del Markham scored 148-136. The Associated Press card showed 146-142 for Fullmer.

Major Players Favor Bids On TV, Radio Contracts

Feel They Can Get At Least Additional Million A Year

By NORMAN MILLER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Major league player representatives met Saturday to seek a greater voice in the renewal of baseball's multi-million dollar television-radio contract.

The TV-radio money, a discussion of "getaway" dates on the 1960 schedule and the formal appointment of Judge Robert L. Cannon of Milwaukee, Wis., as to tire. By that time, Fullmer's smashes to both body and head were taking their toll.

Interested In TV
The players do not exactly see eye-to-eye with commissioner Ford Frick on renewal of the present three million dollars a year TV-radio contract for the World Series and All-Star game. They are vitally interested because 60 per cent of the revenue goes into their pension fund.

Frick, it is learned, would like to renew the contract with the present sponsor right now for another three years. The present contract, drawn up for five years, expires at the end of the 1961 season.

The players would prefer to let the existing contract expire and then throw it open for competitive bidding. They realize they have the most attractive "package" in the television industry and feel they can get at least an additional one million dollars a year for it.

Frick has assured the players that he will make every effort to get the highest possible sum for them and has promised to keep them informed of the negotiations.

As for the scheduling, for the first time ever the players will approve of the slate they are to play next season.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—West Virginia's mighty Mountaineers, paced by All-America Jerry West and junior Lee Patrone, extended their Southern Conference consecutive winning streak to 51 Friday night as they buried The Citadel 98-76.

West and Patrone vaulted the Mounties to a 46-34 halftime lead and turned the game into a near rout in the second half.

Patrone led the West Virginia scoring with 23 points and West got 21. West made himself most prominently felt in the defensive department. He was his team's leading rebounder, blocked five shots and hounded Citadel ace Ray Graves unmercifully.

Graves fouled out with only three minutes gone in the second half and was limited to 12 points.

Major Players Favor Bids On TV, Radio Contracts

Feel They Can Get At Least Additional Million A Year

By NORMAN MILLER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Major league players representatives met Saturday to seek a greater voice in the renewal of baseball's multi-million dollar television and radio contracts.

The TV-radio money, a discussion of "getaway" dates on the 1960 schedule and the formal approval of Judge Robert L. Cannon of Milwaukee, Wis., as their legal counsel also were on the agenda of the 16 player representatives who convene at the plush Fontainebleau Hotel prior to next Monday's start of the major league meetings.

On Sunday, the representatives sit down with the 16 major league club owners to present the recommendations agreed upon at Saturday's meeting. The players are headed by Robin Roberts and Harvey Kuenn.

Interested In TV
The players do not exactly see eye-to-eye with commissioner Ford Frick on renewal of the present three million dollars a year TV-radio contract for the World Series and All-Star game. They are vitally interested because 60 percent of the revenue goes into their pension fund.

Frick, it is learned, would like to renew the contract with the present sponsor right now for another three years. The present contract, drawn up for five years, expires at the end of the 1961 season.

The players would prefer to let the existing contract expire and then throw it open for competitive bidding. They realize they have the most attractive "package" in the television industry and feel they can get at least an additional one million dollars a year for it.

Frick has assured the players that he will make every effort to get the highest possible sum for them and has promised to keep them informed of the negotiations.

As for the scheduling for the first time ever the players will approve of the state they are to play next season.

"Getaway" Dates
The crux of the matter is the owners' practice of scheduling night games on "getaway" dates

Mountaineers Whip The Citadel, 98-76

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—West Virginia's mighty Mountaineers, paced by All-America Jerry West and junior Lee Patrone, extended their Southern Conference consecutive winning streak to 51 Friday night as they buried The Citadel 98-76.

West and Patrone vaulted the Mounties to a 46-34 halftime lead and turned the game into a near rout in the second half.

Patrone led the West Virginia scoring with 23 points and West got 21. West made himself most prominently felt in the defensive department. He was his team's leading rebounder, blocked five shots and hounded Citadel ace Ray Graves unmercifully.

Graves fouled out with only three minutes gone in the second half and was limited to 12 points. Citadel (76) G F P T

UCLA Plays Unbeaten Syracuse

Orange Is Choice By 13½ Points

By ALEX KAHN
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The nation's top-ranking football team from Syracuse University Friday shook off its frost-bite, relaxed under a warm sun and proclaimed itself ready for the intersectional clash with UCLA here Saturday.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's Orangemen took to the Coliseum during the afternoon to get in their second workout since arriving Thursday night. The big Orange squad went directly from their plane to the stadium on arrival to limber up.

Friday's drill was more of the same with about 30 minutes devoted to a play review and timing in an effort to make up for drills lost because of snowy conditions in the East.

Although Syracuse appeared a well-drilled and confident team for their regular season's finale before a national television (NBC) audience, across town on the UCLA campus spirit was sky high.

There was no feeling that the Bruins were whistling their way past their own graveyard although latest odds listed Syracuse as favored by 13½ points.

But there was no lack of enthusiasm among the visitors who need the victory to complete their most successful season in history without a tie or defeat and with the national championship within their grasp.

Guard Roger Davis who had suffered an upset stomach and a mild type of flu earlier in the week was reported completely recovered and ready to go.

UCLA's hopes soared with word that tailback Bill Kilmer, who led UCLA to its 10-3 upset of Southern California, was virtually recovered from a bruised ankle.

With Kilmer in shape, it appeared certain that UCLA would take to the air early and stay up there as long as possible with their passing attack. But UCLA is up against the nation's top defensive squad and it will be a minor miracle if the Bruins' attack is effective where some of the nation's top teams have failed to move the ball.

Breedlove Named On North Team In Senior Bowl Game

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The nation's No. 1 team, Syracuse, placed four players on the 25-man North squad named Friday for the 11th annual Senior Bowl football game at Mobile Jan. 9.

Gerhard Schwedes of Syracuse is one of six halfbacks on the North squad.

The South squad for the Senior Bowl game has not been named. It will be coached by Weeb C. Ewbank of the world champion Baltimore Colts. The North coach will be Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants.

Colts Hope To Shake 7-Year Jinx In San Francisco Today

Favored Over Forty Niners; Giants Will Face Browns Sunday

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International
The Baltimore Colts are 5½ point favorites to whip the Forty-Niners Saturday at San Francisco and clinch at least a tie for the National Football League's Western Division title.

Baltimore and San Francisco are tied for the lead with only two more regular season games to play. The winner of Saturday's nationally — televised (C.B.S.) game will move a game in front and be certain of at least a tie for division honors even if it loses its final game.

The Colts will snap one of the biggest jinxes in sports if they win. They never have beaten the Forty-Niners at San Francisco in seven tries in the N.F.L. and four in the old All-America conference.

The other 10 teams will play Sunday with the New York Giants entertaining the Cleveland Browns in the key game. The Giants are four-point choices to win and capture their second straight eastern crown.

Leads By 2 Games
New York leads Cleveland and the Philadelphia Eagles by two games. The Giants already have clinched at least a tie for the division title and need a win or a tie Sunday to qualify for the championship game.

The Eagles are 2½ point favorites to beat the Redskins at Washington but their slender hopes depend upon Cleveland defeating New York.

The Chicago Bears, a game behind the two western leaders, are seven-point choices to defeat the visiting Pittsburgh Steelers. The Rams are favored over the Green Bay Packers by 5½ points at Los Angeles and the Lions are favored over the Chicago Cardinals by four points at Detroit in the other games.

San Francisco took a 45-14 wallop at Baltimore two weeks ago. Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's no. 1 quarterback, suffered a knee injury in that game and John Brodie did the passing and signal-calling in last Sunday's 21-20 victory over the Browns at Cleveland.

The Colts are in good physical condition and will try to crack that San Francisco jinx with the league's top attack. They lead in total offense (3,781 yards), passing yardage (2,394 yards), points scored (295) and have the no. 1 individual passer in John Unitas.

Unitas has thrown 26 touchdowns passes this season. He needs three more in his last two games to better the N.F.L. season high of 28 set by Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in 1943.

The Forty-Niners had their defense set to defend mainly against Needs 3 TD Passes.

passing in their game at Baltimore two weeks ago. Unitas then switched to calling a large proportion of rushing plays and the Colts, led by Alan Ameche, rolled up 274 yards on the ground.

The guessing game resumes Saturday with the winner taking a big step toward the western title.

After Saturday's clash, the Colts end their regular season at Los Angeles, where they have won only once in seven tries, while the Forty-Niners play host to the Packers in their windup.

New York ends its regular campaign at Washington Dec. 13 while Cleveland plays at Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON (AP) — William Rodenberg, one of the founders of the Baltimore Colts professional football team, died at his home here Thursday.

Rodenberg, 54, also was a stockholder in the Washington Senators baseball team.

He was a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and of Harvard Law School.

Lad Slays Deer In Self Defense

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — Nineteen-year-old Fred Staats of Parkersburg shot and killed his first deer Thursday, but it was an act of self defense.

Maryland Opens Seven-Day Deer Hunting Season

Kills Expected To Set Record

By The Associated Press

About 45,000 hunters are expected to take to the woods Saturday for the opening of the seven-day deer season in Maryland.

And with an extra day this season, game officials expect last year's record kill of 3,135 to be surpassed. The season continues through next Saturday, with no shooting on Sunday.

Game officials say there are reports of big numbers of deer, both in the mountains and on farmland. But the larger ones are expected to be taken again on the Eastern Shore, where the animals depend more upon farm crops than in the woods of the western part of the state.

Hunters are entitled to one deer with three antlers. A special three-day antlerless season will be in effect in some Eastern Shore counties Dec. 17-19.

For the seven-day seasons, shotguns must be used in Howard, Anne Arundel, Charles, Prince Georges, Calvert, St. Marys, Baltimore, Harford, Kent, Queen Annes, Caroline and Talbot counties. Rifles are allowed in other counties.

Terps Seek .500 Record For Season

Windup Campaign With N.C. State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland hopes to take a firmer grip on third place in the Atlantic Coast Conference football windup Saturday with a victory over luckless North Carolina State.

The Terps are in third with a 3-2 record, and have no chance of catching North Carolina at 5-2. But a loss would drop them into fifth behind Wake Forest and South Carolina, tied at 4-3.

The Wolfpack (0-5) shares the conference cellar with Virginia (0-4) and hasn't won in nine games since the opener.

Although Maryland shows a mediocre 4-5 record in all games, it has come along strong in the last half of the season and boasts victories over the ACC leaders, Clemson (6-1) and North Carolina.

About 20,000 fans are expected for the game at Byrd Stadium. The Terps will be led by two all-conference choices, fullback Jim Joyce and guard Tom Gunderman.

Joyce, a compact 190-pounder in his last college game, will be aiming for the ACC rushing title. He needs only 38 yards to beat South Carolina's Phil Lavoie, who finished with 522 yards.

State Trotting Dates Are Set

Rosecroft To Open Season On May 9

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission Friday set 1960 dates for the four trotting ovals.

Rosecroft will open the raceway season again with 24 nights beginning May 9, continuing through June 4.

Baltimore Raceway will take over Laurel's second spot in the sequence, with a program June 6 to July 2. Ocean Downs will have Baltimore's former spot during July, from the 4th through the 30th.

Laurel Raceway will close the season with a Sept. 15-Oct. 12 meeting.

The commission, which earlier set dates for the mile tracks in flat racing, did not indicate when it would decide on dates for the half milers.

Keedy, Eismon Make All-State Class AA Team

Keyser And Charles Town Stars Chosen

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—A fairly light but "hard-nosed" line and a speedy backfield make up the 19th West Virginia Class AA All-State high school football team announced Friday.

Chosen captain of the mythical team by the All-State board headed by Wheeling Intelligencer sports editor Bill Bibb was Willie Milam, star Mullens back. Milam was the offensive and defensive leader of a Rebel team that shares the state Double-A championship with Mt. Hope.

Mt. Hope's ace back Sam Warwick also was named to the team. Mullens and Mt. Hope tied 0-0 in the title playoff game Thanksgiving Day.

There is one repeater from the 1958 team, Huntington Vinson and Don Smith. Another 1958 first team member, guard Bill Allara of Matewan, was chosen to this year's second team.

Like the Class A All-State team announced earlier in the week, the Double A backfield is composed of a quartet of high scorers with varied talents.

Milam gained nearly 1,000 yards for Mullens and tallied 53 points. The leading scorer of the bunch was Warwick with 90 points. He also passed for five touchdowns.

The other backfield members are Gary Keedy of Keyser who scored 15 touchdowns and Pt. Pleasant's Dale Miller who made 83 points and gained some 875 yards rushing.

Three linemen are end Ray Denison, West Union; tackles Curtis Carpenter, Sissonville, and Danny Eismon, Charles Town; guards Charlie Isaacs, Lookout, and Sherman Winter, Ripley, and center Doug Long, Williamson.

Three of the first teamers are juniors, Eismon, Carpenter and Isaacs.

Monongah back Jerry Acord was named captain of the second team and back Gene Zera of Philippi was designated captain of the third team.

The second team includes one sophomore, back Dick Leftridge of Hinton.

Romney Winner, 87-45, Maphis Scores 33 Points

Bill Gets 12 Field Goals As Pioneers Trim Ridgeley

By TED TROXELL

Area scoring king Bill Maphis poured in 33 points to lead the classy Romney High Pioneers to an easy 87-45 victory over Ridgeley High last night on the Blackhaws' floor.

It was the opening game of the campaign for Clyde Green's Pioneers, who must be rated as the "team to beat" this year in the Potomac Valley Conference. Ridgeley had won its lidlifter Tuesday over West Virginia School for the Deaf, 81-69.

Romney rolled up 13 quick points before the Hawks could even find the target. Frank Lambert connected on a layup with 3:05 left in the first period to break the ice for Ridgeley. The Pioneers led by a 20-4 margin at the close of the period, but the Blackhaws matched them point for point in the second quarter, which ended with Romney still holding a comfortable advantage, 36-20.

The big offensive explosion by the visitors came in the final stanza, when Maphis scored 13 of his 33 points as Romney outscored Ridgeley, 29-12.

Maphis hit on 12 of 23 field goal attempts and added nine free throws in 13 tries. Most of the slender senior forward's buckets came on layups and tip-ins guided by his magic hands. In addition to his scoring outburst, "Bombin' Bill" turned in a tremendous job of rebounding under both backboards.

Three other cagers scored in double figures for the well-balanced Romney crew. Donnie Davis, Dave Kirk, and Stan Shingleton tallied 18, 16 and 11 points respectively. The Pioneers, as a unit, found the range on 36 of 69 field goal attempts for an amazing .522 percentage.

Lambert and Larry Snyder bore the bunt of the Ridgeley scoring attack. Lambert tossed in 15 points, and Snyder, who came up with five fielders in six firings in the second quarter, wound up with 14 for the evening. The Hawks posted a sub-par 288 shooting mark from the floor with 19 field goals in 66 cracks. The lineups:

UCLA Plays Unbeaten Syracuse

Orange Is Choice By 13½ Points

By ALEX KAHN

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The nation's top-ranking football team from Syracuse University Friday shook off its frost-bite, relaxed under a warm sun and proclaimed itself ready for the intersectional clash with UCLA here Saturday.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's Orangemen took to the Coliseum during the afternoon to get in their second workout since arriving Thursday night. The big Orange squad went directly from their plane to the stadium on arrival to limber up.

Friday's drill was more of the same with about 30 minutes devoted to a play review and timing in an effort to make up for drills lost because of snowy conditions in the East.

Although Syracuse appeared a well-drilled and confident team for their regular season's finale before a national television (NBC) audience, across town on the UCLA campus spirit was sky high.

Orange Is Choice
There was no feeling that the Bruins were whistling their way past their own graveyard although latest odds listed Syracuse as favored by 13½ points.

But there was no lack of enthusiasm among the visitors who need the victory to complete their most successful season in history without a tie or defeat and with the national championship within their grasp.

Guard Roger Davis who had suffered an upset stomach and a mild type of flu earlier in the week was reported completely recovered and ready to go.

60,000 May See Game
Curiosity over the "Sizeable Seven" line and the "Fearsome Foursome" in the Syracuse backfield has spurred interest so much among football fans that a crowd of better than 60,000 was anticipated even though the game is being televised locally.

UCLA's hopes soared with word that tailback Bill Kilmer, who led UCLA to its 10-3 upset of Southern California, was virtually recovered from a bruised ankle.

With Kilmer in shape, it appeared certain that UCLA would take to the air early and stay up there as long as possible with their passing attack. But UCLA is up against the nation's top defensive squad and it will be a minor miracle if the Bruins' attack is effective where some of the nation's top teams have failed to move the ball.

Breedlove Named On North Team In Senior Bowl Game

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The nation's No. 1 team, Syracuse, placed four players on the 25-man North squad named Friday for the 11th annual Senior Bowl football game at Mobile Jan. 9.

Syracuse's All-America guard and top draft choice of the Chicago Bears, Roger Davis, is one of three interior linemen from the Orange team. The others are tackles Bob Yates and Maury Youmans, biggest man on the squad at 6-6 and 230 pounds.

Gerhard Schwedes of Syracuse is one of six halfbacks on the North squad.

The South squad for the Senior Bowl game has not been named. It will be coached by Weeb E. Ewbank of the world champion Baltimore Colts. The North coach will be Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants.

Colts Hope To Shake 7-Year Jinx In San Francisco Today

Favored Over Forty Niners; Giants Will Face Browns Sunday

By EARL WRIGHT

The Baltimore Colts are 5½ point favorites to whip the Forty-Niners Saturday at San Francisco and clinch at least a tie for the National Football League's Western Division title.

Baltimore and San Francisco are tied for the lead with only two more regular season games to play. The winner of Saturday's game will move a game in front and be certain of at least a tie for division honors even if it loses its final game.

The Colts will snap one of the biggest jinxes in sports if they win. They never have beaten the Forty-Niners at San Francisco in seven tries in the N.F.L. and four in the old All-America conference.

The other 10 teams will play Sunday with the New York Giants entertaining the Cleveland Browns in the key game. The Giants are four-point choices to win and capture their second straight eastern crown.

Leads By 2 Games
New York leads Cleveland and the Philadelphia Eagles by two games. The Giants already have clinched at least a tie for a division title and need a win or a tie Sunday to qualify for the championship game.

The Eagles are 2½ point favorites to beat the Redskins at Washington but their slender hopes depend upon Cleveland defeating New York.

The Chicago Bears, a game behind the two western leaders, are seven-point choices to defeat the visiting Pittsburgh Steelers. The Rams are favored over the Green Bay Packers by 5½ points at Los Angeles and the Lions are favored over the Chicago Cardinals by four points at Detroit in the other games.

San Francisco took a 45-14 wallop at Baltimore two weeks ago. Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback, suffered a knee injury in that game and John Brodie did the passing and signal-calling in last Sunday's 21-20 victory over the Browns at Cleveland.

The Colts are in good physical condition and will try to crack the San Francisco jinx with the league's top attack. They lead in total offense (3,781 yards), passing yardage (2,394 yards), points scored (285) and have the No. 1 individual passer in John Unitas.

Needs 3 TD Passes
Unitas has thrown 26 touchdown passes this season. He needs three more in his last two games to better the N.F.L. season high of 28 set by Sid Luckman of the Chicago Bears in 1943.

The Forty-Niners had their defense set to defend mainly against

Davis To Open New Ski Slope

DAVIS, W. Va. (UPI)—A new one-mile ski slope at nearby Weiss Knob is scheduled to open Saturday and will remain open through Easter.

A snow-making machine will provide a covering of white for the ground when normal snowfall is not available, officials said. Othmar Mair, former Austrian ace who will direct the Weiss Knob ski school, will be among instructors available for the slope.

NBA Teams Trade
NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Knickerbockers Friday bought Jim Palmer from the Cincinnati Royals for cash and an undisclosed player to be delivered within a couple of weeks.

Maryland Opens Seven-Day Deer Hunting Season

Kills Expected To Set Record

By The Associated Press

About 45,000 hunters are expected to take to the woods Saturday for the opening of the seven-day deer season in Maryland.

And with an extra day this season, game officials expect last year's record kill of 3,135 to be surpassed. The season continues through next Saturday, with no shooting on Sunday.

Game officials say there are reports of big numbers of deer, both in the mountains and on farmland. But the larger ones are expected to be taken again on the Eastern Shore, where the animals depend more upon farm crops than in the woods of the western part of the state.

Hunters are entitled to one deer with three antlers. A special three-day antlerless season will be in effect in some Eastern Shore counties Dec. 17-19.

For the seven-day seasons, shotguns must be used in Howard, Anne Arundel, Charles, Prince Georges, Calvert, St. Marys, Queen Anne's, Carroll and Talbot counties. Rifles are allowed in other counties.

Terps Seek .500 Record For Season

Windup Campaign With N.C. State

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland hopes to take a firm grip on third place in the Atlantic Coast Conference football windup Saturday with a victory over luckless North Carolina State.

The Terps are in third with a 3-2 record, and have no chance of catching North Carolina at 5-2. But a loss would drop them into fifth behind Wake Forest and South Carolina, tied at 4-3.

The Wolfpack (0-5) shares the conference cellar with Virginia (0-4) and hasn't won in nine games since the opener.

Although Maryland shows a mediocre 4-5 record in all games, it has come along strong in the last half of the season and boasts victories over the ACC leaders, Clemson (6-1) and North Carolina.

About 20,000 fans are expected for the game at Byrd Stadium. The Terps will be led by two all-conference choices, fullback Jim Joyce and guard Tom Gunderman.

Joyce, a compact 190-pounder in his last college game, will be aiming for the ACC rushing title. He needs only 38 yards to beat South Carolina's Phil Lavoie, who finished with 522 yards.

State Trotting Dates Are Set

Rosecroft To Open Season On May 9

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission Friday set 1960 dates for the four trotting ovals.

Rosecroft will open the raceway season again with 24 nights beginning May 9, continuing through June 4.

Baltimore Raceway will take over Laurel's second spot in the sequence, with a program June 6 to July 2. Ocean Downs will have Baltimore's former spot during July, from the 4th through the 30th.

Laurel Raceway will close the season with a Sept. 15-Oct. 12 meeting.

The commission, which earlier set dates for the mile tracks in flat racing, did not indicate when it would decide on dates for the half milers.

Hoad Beats Gonzales

ADELAIDE, Australia (UPI)—Giving a bewildering display of power tennis, Lew Hoad beat Pancho Gonzales, 6-4, 6-0 Friday night to win first prize in the three-day tournament on the Memorial Drive courts.

A crowd of over 5,000 sat in pouring rain for the final two games, fascinated by Hoad's game.

Frank Sedgman beat Rex Hartwig, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, to win second prize.

Mythological Sponsor

Max Banzhaf is a sponsor, an intelligent sponsor, a beast generally considered as mythological as the unicorn. Director of public relations of the Armstrong Cork Company, Mr. Banzhaf is interesting because he violently rejects the idea that the viewer is a moron with a twelve-year-old mentality. "I think that it is exceedingly naive to assume the consumer is a moron. If anything, the consumer is ahead of our advertising, ahead of the writers, the designers, everyone."

Armstrong's special baby is Circle Theater which deals with actual occurrence and is always honest drama about real people. During the quiz mania, Circle Theater goes up against "$64,000 is quite a sophisticated world we live in. The entire population isn't avant garde but they're certainly not morons. Now if an artist comes out with something the public doesn't like, he says the public is uneducated. I don't think the artist should be the absolute judge of what the public gets any more than I think the sponsors or the networks should be the absolute judge.

"You want to know how we look at it? First of all, television is not an art form which any artist can use to satisfy his own desires. In other mediums, the person has the right of choice. He can choose what he will or will not see. But television intrudes into the home. People can't monitor the sets for their kids; there isn't time. And even if there were Question? And it got slaughtered in the ratings but Armstrong kept it on anyway: "Why did we have Circle Theater and why did we keep it? Well, we believe the public wants something more than just escape, something that sticks to the ribs, something that demands something of you. There's such a plethora of cowboys and Indians and private eyes. People buy a floor (which is what Armstrong sells) every eight years or so. It's a considered purchase. They have to form a favorable opinion of a company. One good impression is worth more than ten weak or bad ones. We think our programs leave a good impression. They provoke thought. We want media ratings as evidence. Try to buy a program from

This is very unusual talk from a sponsor but Banzhaf is an independent thinker as sponsors go. "You can no longer distinguish the farmer from the banker," Banzhaf strongly opposes the government's getting into the act, feeling that would lead to more mediocrity rather than less. "The sponsor, the producer

Three Pros Tie At Coral Gables

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI)—Don Bispingshoff, who won an amateur title on the Biltmore golf course, shot a 69 there Friday to tie Bill Johnston and Dow Finsterwald at 138 for the halfway lead in the Coral Gables Open.

Bispingshoff, a native of Orlando, a second-rate power with "Don't do this" or "Don't try that," who are going to relieve ourselves of the power to compete. I am also afraid we might legitimate this medium into mediocrity. I am happy to see the spotlight thrown on it but it could have its vitality destroyed by ill-consi-

Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., Doug Sanders of Miami, and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., all had 139 and were tied for second.

Another stroke back at 140 came Jack Fleck of Los Angeles, Bill Collins of Crystal River, Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., and first-day leader Julius Boros of Mid

Welfare Client Told To Pay For Damaged TV Set

Poor television reception nearly landed a 54-year-old local man a six-month term in Maryland House of Correction yesterday.

The man, Lloyd F. Cozad, who lives on Goldens Lane, pleaded not guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of a 17-inch portable TV set he purchased on the installment plan from a downtown dealer.

Witnesses in Trial Magistrates Court testified that Cozad, who is unemployed but receives a relief check from the Welfare Board, became unsatisfied with the set and proceeded to destroy it.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt sentenced the man to six months but suspended the sentence and court costs providing the man pay $5 a month to the dealer on the installment.

Baker Is Praised

State's Attorney James S. Getty has written Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commanding officer of the LaVale Barracks of the State Police, thanking him for assigning Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator, to handle the duties of Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

Lilya has been ill for two months and Sgt. Baker has been acting county investigator. Getty said that he knows the assignment of Sgt. Baker to his office worked a hardship on the LaVale detachment.

"Sgt. Baker performed the duties of county investigator conscientiously and to the complete satisfaction of this office," Getty added. "Your detachment can be proud of having a man of integrity and ability on duty." Getty stated.

Fort Hill Players' Comedy Slated

Fourteen members of the Fort Hill High School Players have roles in the production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" to be presented in the school auditorium Friday, December 11, at 8:15 p. m.

Miss Helen Smith, director, said male leads in the comedy will be portrayed by George Smith, Ronald Growden, William Lower and Gary Davis. Female leads will be Jane Lange, Marlene Clark and Norma Parks.

Others in the cast are Russell Kifer, Robert Hymes, Steven Spooler, Harry Rice, Pat Shannon, Frank Nimmon and James Ricker.

The story tells of "Aunt Martha" and "Aunt Abby" who "lay to rest" the remains of male roomers in their cellar. The two old ladies refuse to be separated from their brother who believes he is Teddy Roosevelt. The three family members suffer from delusions and their activities provide the story.

Ridgeley Police Regulations Stir Comment

Mayor Outlines Council Action

Members of the town council of Ridgeley indicated last night they will protest the action of Mayor Charles H. Fryer in setting up a list of "Regulations for Police Department Operations" which they said would require the town's policeman to work 19 hours a day and seven days a week.

At a council meeting Thursday night, councilmen said, Mayor Fryer read the list of regulations and said these would govern the operation of the police chief and police department. Councilmen took no formal action on the regulations, but said they afterward learned that the regulations require the long working hours, which they say they will oppose.

Councilwoman Betty Jo Tabler said she objected to the working hours in the regulations but was overruled by the mayor. She said one councilman, who was absent, has indicated his opposition, and another indicated he would prefer not to be quoted now, but would discuss the issue at the next meeting.

Seven Regulations

Seven regulations are listed in the instructions over the mayor's signature:

1. Violators will be bonded only by the mayor or recorder.
2. Officer on duty must protect school crossings on Potomac Street from 8:15 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and 11:15 a. m. to 1 p. m., Monday through Friday.
3. Street lights must be checked each night at dark and any unlighted pole reported immediately to the Potomac Edison Company.
4. Officer on duty must be subject to call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.
5. Officer must make seven tours of duty around town between the hours of 6 p. m. and 1 a. m. These tours should be made each hour but should be arranged so that a given section of town is not toured at the same time each hour or night.
6. Officer must turn in a daily mileage report at the end of each month. A daily report of police duties and activities performed is to be made and should be placed on the mayor's desk each day.
7. All police reports and records must be brought up to date and be kept available in the Police Department at the City Hall at all times.

Won't Work All The Time

Mayor Fryer said it was not his intention to require the town's police officer to work all the time.

"When we employed Chief Cornett," he said, "he agreed to work under certain conditions and regulations. He has since asked that his duties, instructions and regulations be presented to him in writing. That is what I have done." Chief Cornett accepted and signed the orders, he added.

Mayor Fryer said he read the list to council and there was no protest or objection from any member. He added that there is an extra man available for police duty in the event that the regular man needs time off.

The mayor also noted that duty at school crossings is on a five-day week basis, thus relieving the officer two days a week from this activity, so "the claim that he works 19 hours a day, seven days a week, is not entirely a valid one."

Mayor Fryer said a copy of the regulations, signed by both him and Chief Cornett is available for public inspection.

The question will be aired at the next regular meeting of the council, the first Thursday in January, officials indicated.

At Thursday's meeting, Chief of Police Jack D. Cornett reported that during the month of November, he had made 23 arrests for speeding; three for reckless driving; three for drunkenness, and had investigated two break-ins and enterings. He said he consumed about one week investigating the burglaries and received splendid cooperation and assistance from the Cumberland Police Department.

Plan New March Of Dimes Drive

Leaders of the 1960 New March of Dimes, which will be held throughout Allegany County during January, study a blueprint for victory presented by Hugh A. McMullen, county campaign chairman, seated between Mrs. Joyce Vowell and Mrs. Russell

Haines, of the Womens' Division. Standing are John M. Robb, chapter chairman, and Victor M. Hebb. Plans for the drive against three major cripples — birth defects, arthritis and polio — were made at the pre-campaign meeting last night.

1,200 County Families Help In Cancer Study

Over 1,200 families of Allegany County participated in the nationwide survey by the American Cancer Society which is making every effort to learn more about the disease.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the county project, said yesterday the 115 volunteers throughout the county area exceeded their goal by more than 100 families.

She expressed her thanks to the researchers who enrolled over 1,200 families with nearly 4,000 persons taking part.

Maryland played an active part in the survey and Allegany County was among four other counties (Prince George, Montgomery, Washington and Baltimore) and areas of the Eastern Shore, to be studied.

Half a million families from coast to coast are taking part in the massive "Cancer Preventive Study" over the next six years.

How Americans live, their occupations, personal habits, family background, medical histories and other diverse factors will be thoroughly explored and exhaustively analyzed for dominant clues in learning more about cancer, she said.

This is one of a number of Maryland meetings planned as part of the supervision and consultation program under the National Defense Education Act.

Guest speaker at this morning's meeting will be Dr. Philip G. Johnson, professor of education at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. He is considered one of the nation's outstanding science teachers, having been founder and first president of the National Science Teachers Association.

Lewin A. Wheat, state supervisor of high schools, will be in charge of today's program in Frostburg.

About 100 science teachers from the three counties are expected at today's session. Leading the delegation from Allegany County will be Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer and Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools.

The afternoon session will feature a panel science in which the panelists will be recipients of Science Foundation Fellowships. Among the panelists will be Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, teacher of chemistry and biology at Valley High School in Lonaconing.

Car Hits Boy On Route 36

Richard Dale Anderson, 7, of RD 2, Frostburg, was hit by an automobile last night on Maryland Route 36 about 200 feet west of Green Row Road in Zihlman.

He is reported in "fair" condition at Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

State Police said the driver was James J. Whetstone, 37, of 89½ Braddock Street, Frostburg, who was traveling east on the highway about 8:10 p. m. when the accident occurred.

Young Anderson, who is a son of Mrs. Thelma Anderson, sustained a possible concussion and a laceration of his scalp. Police said the boy was crossing the highway when he was hit on the right side of the road and was thrown about five feet. Trooper Joseph H. Helmstetter investigated.

The error was pointed out to Mr. Popp by City Engineer C. R. Nuzum, who asked him to move the wall back on his property.

The local man, however, decided to give up the project and to have the materials hauled away, officials said.

Plaintiff Wins Damage Suit Over Note

Confusion Arises About Interest

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury decided yesterday that Alton Leo Baughman of Ambrust, Pa., was entitled to $2,280 damages plus interest, but the question of interest caused some momentary confusion.

When the jury of eight men and four women came back to the court room after about an hour's deliberation, John Bestwick, this city, the foreman, announced the verdict was in favor of Mr. Baughman, the plaintiff, in the amount of $2,280 plus two-and-one-half per cent interest from the date of demand.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, who had presided at the all-day trial, said the date of demand was not a part of the record in the case and concluded that it was too vague. He sent the 12 jurors back to the jury room with a suggestion that they determine a specific date for the start of interest.

About 10 minutes later, the jurors returned. This time Mr. Bestwick said the interest of two-and-one-half per cent should start from July 25, 1956, the date of the death of Mrs. Rhyspha I. Magill.

Just Under Limit

Then, Judge Harris raised another question. The total verdict with interest could not exceed $2,500 because that is the amount for which Mr. Baughman sued. A plaintiff never can recover more in damages than the amount which he asks. Paul Ottinger of Hagerstown and Gorman E. Getty, this city, the plaintiff's attorneys, figured that the interest should amount to $190, which would make the total amount of the verdict $2,470, just $80 under the limit.

Mr. Baughman brought the suit in Washington County Circuit Court against his stepfather, John K. Magill, 759 West Washington Street, Hagerstown. It concerned a promissory note dated July 2, 1953, which would have been payable upon the death of Mrs. Rhyspha I. Magill, the plaintiff's mother and defendant's wife. The case was moved here on order of Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Magill died July 25, 1956, but payment has not been made, the plaintiff asserted.

Police officials said a decision will be made soon on whether the suspension will be upheld or whether the officer will be reinstated.

Officer Henry, who is 34, suffered a fractured skull in the off-duty incident and was discharged from Sacred Heart Hospital last week.

It is understood that he will not be able to resume work if the suspension is voided, until the first of the year.

Police officials explained at the time that the suspension, on a charge of misconduct, was routine procedure and subject to the completion of an investigation and questioning of the officer.

CALVIN D. JOHNSON

Chamber Plans Annual Meeting Here January 26

Ladies Night Event Speaker Is Named

Calvin D. Johnson, special consultant on public affairs for the American Trucking Association, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce January 26.

The dinner meeting will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The first such meeting held for several years, it will be a ladies night event.

Mr. Johnson is considered one of America's outstanding contemporary speakers and has addressed hundreds of business, civic and fraternal organizations.

Is Foe Of Rackets

He began early his career in the public's service. A resident of Belleville, Ill., he served as a member of the school and park boards of his community. As a member of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, he brought about the disclosures of large-scale tax graft.

As a member of the Illinois General Assembly, he organized the drive to break the lean shark and collection agency rackets of Southern Illinois. Appointed to the Woodward Commission, he exposed relief racketeering and brought about legislation to stop the exploiting of people on relief.

He was the sponsor of the "Johnson Work or Don't Eat Law" which forced every able-bodied man on relief to work and earn the amount of his budget.

Served In Congress

Elected to Congress in 1942, he exposed and forced the abandonment of the program whereby the American taxpayers' money was used to pay farmers of Peru not to raise cotton. He disclosed and forced the abandonment of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's European Farm Machinery Program, under which one-half million pieces of farm equipment were scheduled to be shipped to European countries, many of which are behind the Iron Curtain today.

Born near Fordsville, Ky., Mr. Johnson is a descendant of the famous pioneer surgeon, Ephraim McDowell, who is honored in a commemorative stamp issued this week.

Charles L. George is chairman of the committee which is completing plans for the annual meeting.

Patrolman's Statement Is Being Studied

Cumberland Police Department officials yesterday began to study a statement given by Patrolman Kenneth Lee Henry, who was suspended following a November 11 fracas here.

Officer Henry is represented by Thomas N. Berry, local attorney, who filed an appeal following the suspension.

Police officials said a decision will be made soon on whether the suspension will be upheld or whether the officer will be reinstated.

Officer Henry, who is 34, suffered a fractured skull in the off-duty incident and was discharged from Sacred Heart Hospital last week.

It is understood that he will not be able to resume work if the suspension is voided, until the first of the year.

Won't Work All The Time

Mayor Fryer said it was not his intention to require the town's police officer to work all the time.

"When we employed Chief Cornett," he said, "he agreed to work under certain conditions and regulations. He has since asked that his duties, instructions and regulations be presented to him in writing. That is what I have done," Chief Cornett accepted and signed the orders, he added.

Mayor Fryer said he read the list to council and there was no protest or objection from any member. He added that there is an extra man available for police duty in the event that the regular man needs time off.

The mayor also noted that duty at school crossings is on a five-day week basis, thus relieving the officer two days a week from this activity, so "the claim that he works 19 hours a day, seven days a week, is not entirely a valid one."

Mayor Fryer said a copy of the regulations, signed by both him and Chief Cornett is available for public inspection.

The question will be aired at the next regular meeting of the council, the first Thursday in January, officials indicated.

At Thursday's meeting, Chief of Police Jack D. Cornett reported that during the month of November, he had made 23 arrests for speeding; three for reckless driving; three for drunkenness, and had investigated two break-ins and enterings. He said he consumed about one week investigating the burglaries and receiving splendid cooperation and assistance from the Cumberland Police Department.

1,200 County Families Help In Cancer Study

Over 1,200 families of Allegany County participated in the nationwide survey by the American Cancer Society which is making every effort to learn more about the disease.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the county project, said yesterday the 115 volunteers throughout the county area exceeded their goal by more than 100 families.

She expressed her thanks to the researchers who enrolled over 1,200 families with nearly 4,000 persons taking part.

Maryland played an active part in the survey and Allegany County was among four other counties (Prince George, Montgomery, Washington and Baltimore) and areas of the Eastern Shore, to be studied.

Half a million families from coast to coast are taking part in the massive "Cancer Preventive Study" over the next six years.

How Americans live, their occupations, personal habits, family background, medical histories and other diverse factors will be thoroughly explored and exhaustively analyzed for dominant clues in learning more about cancer, she said.

Food Overdone; Firemen Called

Food being cooked on a hot plate in a South End barbershop and in the stove of a West Side residence kept city firemen busy yesterday.

Engine Company No. 2 at South End got a call at 11:31 a. m. to 415-419 Virginia Avenue where some food left unattended at the barbershop of W. H. Gayhart caused quite a bit of smoke which seeped into upstairs apartments as well as the warehouse of the Kline Furniture Company.

Occupants of the apartments detected the smoke coming up between the partitions and summoned firemen. The proprietors of the warehouse also were concerned about the smoke.

Firemen from Engine Company No. 3 at West Side got a call at 12:46 p. m. to the home of Mrs. Lyndon Gump, Cartmell Avenue, where grease from bacon being broiled in the oven ignited. Firemen said there was no damage.

Plaintiff Wins Damage Suit Over Note

Confusion Arises About Interest

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury decided yesterday that Alton Leo Baughman of Ambrust, Pa., was entitled to $2,280 damages plus interest, but the question of interest caused some momentary confusion.

When the jury of eight men and four women came back to the court room after about an hour's deliberation, John Bestwick, this city, the foreman, announced the verdict was in favor of Mr. Baughman, the plaintiff, in the amount of $2,280 plus two-and-one-half per cent interest from the date of demand.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, who had presided at the all-day trial, said the date of demand was not a part of the record in the case and concluded that it was too vague. He sent the 12 jurors back to the jury room with a suggestion that they determine a specific date for the start of interest.

About 10 minutes later, the jurors returned. This time Mr. Bestwick said the interest of two-and-one-half per cent should start from July 25, 1956, the date of the death of Mrs. Rhysphra I. Magill.

Just Under Limit

Then, Judge Harris raised another question. The total verdict with interest could not exceed $2,500 because that is the amount for which Mr. Baughman sued. A plaintiff never can recover more in damages than the amount which he asks. Paul Ottinger of Hagerstown and Gorman E. Getty, this city, the plaintiff's attorneys, figured that the interest should amount to $190, which would make the total amount of the verdict $2,470, just $80 under the limit.

Mr. Baughman brought the suit in Washington County Circuit Court against his stepfather, John K. Magill, 759 West Washington Street, Hagerstown. It concerned a promissory note dated July 2, 1953, which would have been payable upon the death of Mrs. Rhysphra I. Magill, the plaintiff's mother and defendant's wife. The case was moved here on order of Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin.

Mrs. Magill died July 25, 1956, but payment has not been made, the plaintiff asserted. Officer Henry, who is 34, suffered a fractured skull in the off-duty incident and was discharged from Sacred Heart Hospital last week.

It is understood that he will not be able to resume work if the suspension is voided, until the first of the year. Police officials explained at the time that the suspension, on a charge of misconduct, was routine procedure and subject to the completion of an investigation and questioning of the officer.

The defendant, through his attorneys, Martin V. Bostetter, Hagerstown, and William Walsh, this city, contended that the so-called promissory note was executed without any consideration, was not to be delivered and was not intended to be a final binding obligation. He contended that as soon as he deeded his properties to his wife and himself as tenants by the entireties the note was to be null and void. The new deeds were dated July 8, 1953.

Seven witnesses were heard. Included were W. Edward Himmel, chief deputy clerk of Washington County Circuit Court; Mr. Baughman, Roland C. Reedy, Hagerstown attorney who drew the note; Mr. Magill, Paul Clingensmith, his son-in-law; Mrs. Mildred Magill Clingensmith, his daughter, and Catherine Baughman Barber, the plaintiff's sister.

Chamber Plans Annual Meeting Here January 26

Ladies Night Event Speaker Is Named

Calvin D. Johnson, special consultant on public affairs for the American Trucking Association, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce January 26.

The dinner meeting will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The first such meeting held for several years, it will be a ladies night event.

Mr. Johnson is considered one of America's outstanding contemporary speakers and has addressed hundreds of business, civic and fraternal organizations.

Is Foe Of Rackets

He began early his career in the public service. A resident of Belleville, Ill., he served as a member of the school and park boards of his community. As a member of the St. Clair County Board of Supervisors, he brought about the disclosures of large-scale tax graft.

As a member of the Illinois General Assembly, he organized the drive to break the lean shark and collection agency rackets of Southern Illinois. Appointed to the Woodward Commission, he exposed relief racketeering and brought about legislation to stop the exploiting of people on relief.

He was the sponsor of the "Johnson Work or Don't Eat Law" which forced every able-bodied man on relief to work and earn the amount of his budget.

Served In Congress

Elected to Congress in 1942, he exposed and forced the abandonment of the program whereby the American taxpayers' money was used to pay farmers of Peru not to raise cotton. He disclosed and forced the abandonment of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's European Farm Machinery Program, under which one-half million pieces of farm equipment were scheduled to be shipped to European countries, many of which are behind the Iron Curtain today.

Born near Fordsville, Ky., Mr. Johnson is a descendant of the famous pioneer surgeon, Ephraim McDowell, who is honored in a commemorative stamp issued this week.

Charles L. George is chairman of the committee which is completing plans for the annual meeting.

Mr. Orndorff cautioned property owners that about 4,000 delinquent tax bills will be prepared beginning next week. They will be mailed out early in January and a 50 cent charge will be added to each delinquent taxpayer's bill.

Within 60 days after the delinquent tax bills are mailed, the collector will offer at public auction all property on which 1959 taxes have not been paid.
